Council considers annual event

Festival '79, the cultural portion of the recent Alberta Summer Games here in St. Albert, may become a permanent event if some city hall people have their way.

"Festival '79 is the first of what is hoped to be the series of a long list of events that'll make St. Albert, if it's not too ambitious, the cultural centre of Alberta," City Manager Bob Byron told council Monday night.

Heritage Day showed "the beginnings of being a very important event," added Alderman Roger Ayotte. "We've finally got a vehicle. Let's do something with it." He said he wasn't satisfied with present use of the grounds where the Day was held, Lacombe Park and Lake, and he hoped that the city might provide funding to make the area more suitable for various community events.

Asked where funding for such future projects might come, Mr. Byron said "undoubtedly the city will be involved" but recent support at the Games indicated that St. Albert residents themselves would stand behind any such enterprise.

Alderman Bill Shields added after the meeting that the $50,000 legacy that the Alberta Summer Games Council will be passing on to St. Albert might very suitably be used for staging an annual festival. In the past, he said, municipalities receiving the legacy have used it for capital projects but there's no reason why St. Albert has to.

Bus order sparks debate

By Jeff Adams

Agreeing to buy three more buses that are badly needed didn't seem so difficult but city council spent more than 30 minutes arguing about it last Monday night.

Most of the opposition came from Alderman Liesbeth Bakker, normally a supporter of public transit. Mrs. Bakker didn't oppose purchasing the buses. She objected to buying "the little single ones."

Articulated buses -- the ones that look like they're split in half with an accordion in the middle -- are the answer, Mrs. Bakker said, especially for the St. Albert-Edmonton route.

The gas shortage south of the border, or as she termed it, "the stirring of a very ugly dragon in the states," means that public transit is now in vogue. American cities have exhausted the U.S. supply of buses and are now buying Canadian ones, she said, thereby making it impossible for cities like St. Albert to get quick delivery of the normal sized buses.

As a result, she said, articulated buses may be the only answer. They're also more economical because they're one and one-half the size of normal buses yet only require one driver each and use less fuel per passenger than a comparable choice.

"St. Albert has lost its innovative approach to transit," she said, reminding the other aldermen that the city first looked at articulated buses more than five years ago.

Other members of council agreed that the new kind of buses might be the answer but since only a few of them are in use in Alberta, not Please Turn to Page A2

Seniors get full use of City buses

St. Albert's senior citizen transit passes can now be used anytime during the day, following a city decision to drop the rush hour restrictions.

The passes, available for anyone over age 65, had formerly been unacceptable from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

City Engineer Don Corrigan said the city changed its policy, after learning that Edmonton planned a similar move. Giving seniors unlimited use of transit facilities, he said, will "eliminate a lot of the discrepancies" that existed under the old system.

Mr. Corrigan also wished to remind transit patrons that beginning on September 1, St. Albert's westerly bus route will be designated A1 or A2. No scheduling or route changes are involved, he said.

Council surprises drive-in owner

By Jeff Adams

The St. Albert Drive-In Theatre's owner was shocked by city council's decision Monday night to give third and final reading to a bylaw requesting the Lieutenant Governor to ban restricted movies from the theatre.

"I don't know why they rushed it so fast," said Albert Hauptman. "I didn't expect this until September."

In an interview Tuesday, Mr. Hauptman said he'd planned to make some kind of representation to council when the matter arose again, but he'd never expected the city to give second and third readings to their bylaw so soon.

The bylaw asking the Lieutenant Governor to classify the place as a "Designated Drive-In Theatre" comes in response to resident complaints about the nude scenes and foul language at the theatre. In appearances at council meetings, they've complained that their back windows offer a clear view of the theatre's viewing screen, making it impossible to shield the scenes from younger, more impressionable eyes.

"There's only about four people affected," retorts Mr. Hauptman, adding that residents are "going about designating it on a moral issue when they really complained about noise." Council has heard repeatedly that homeowners near the Lavoisier Road theatre leased from Towne Cinemas of Edmonton, are subjected to noise from the theatre until early morning hours.

At their August 9 meeting, Terry Yushchysyn represented the drive-in before council and explained that a new electronic sound system would eliminate any noise problems in the future. He also agreed at that time to submit a list of upcoming films for council's inspection.

The aldermen agreed Monday night that they're not happy with the theatre's response so far. Mayor Harvey said he hasn't heard from the owners either confirming that the new sound system has been installed or offering a list of scheduled films.

"I think if he had intended to do anything he should've approached the city, and he hasn't."

Mr. Hauptman said he was too surprised by council's passage of the bylaw to have planned any future actions. The matter is in the hands of the Lieutenant Governor now, he said, and so any negotiations with city council are probably finished.

He added that he wasn't sure how the proposed restriction might affect business. "It hurts. I don't think it'll hurt us particularly. It'll hurt patrons." Restricted but respected films like "The Deerhunter," he said, will be unavailable under the proposed designation.

Asked whether a film like that might simply be a "come-on" while most of the theatre's offerings are and will continue to be less memorable fare, Mr. Hauptman admitted that "If you look at the percentages right now, the percentages would be restricted."

ORDER AT THE COURTHOUSE

Workmen at the new courthouse on St. Anne Street have been making good use of the great weather we've been experiencing of late. The building is receiving its brick facing and other exterior in preparation for the cold winter months when crews will move indoors to complete the interior.

Constable deemed party pooper

There's one at every party and Cst. Ron Rocco took the cake at this one. Several teen-agers were setting up a pot party behind the St. Albert Inn last Friday night when an uninvited guest, Cst. Rocco arrived. Mark Douglas Lindblad of #8 Larson Avenue was found in possession of a bag of marijuana which was the supply for the party. The teen-agers were disappointed because they hadn't sampled the goodies and were forced to seek other forms for entertainment. Lindblad has been charged with possession of a narcotic and will appear in court on September 5.

Lion's Park also hosted a teen-age party last weekend. Csts. Rocco and Kerr approached a group of people in the area near the band shelter and noticed several liquor bottles being thrown onto the ground. Three boys were found heavily intoxicated and were arrested and lodged in cells. Three juvenile girls were found in the group and their parents were called to take custody of them. Stephen and Richard Morse of #10 Birch Drive have been charged for supplying liquor to minors and for littering. This is the second time this summer that the Morse brothers have been charged for littering the Lion's Park area.

The public is encouraged to report breaches of the peace to the police so that corrective action can be taken. No one enjoys the sight of garbage scattered around our parks which also makes them unsafe for children to play in.

The Braeside Presbyterian Church was nearly set on fire this week by some unidentified children. A large paper sign advertising a vacation bible school was ignited and as it burned it scorched the cedar shingles on the church wall. Two City of St. Albert workers noticed the fire and were able to extinguish it before any amount of damage was done. This incident could have serious consequences had it not been caught in the early stages.

Bridge design study gets nod

St. Albert could have a fourth Perron Street Bridge within the next year.

At Monday night's meeting, city council approved a $35,000 design study to replace the existing structure which dates back several decades. The original bridge on the site, reported to be the first one west of Winnipeg, was built in 1862 by Father Lacombe and friends.

In approving the study, council was acting on recommendations from City Engineer Don Corrigan and the Committee of the Whole. "It is recommended," Mr. Corrigan wrote to City Manager Bob Byron, "that we proceed with design of the bridge so that it can be replaced in 1980."

Construction costs are estimated at $800,000. Part of that amount, Mr. Corrigan reports, can probably be obtained from the province under its Arterial Roadway Program.

He notes that at present, "The bridge condition is considered poor. The abutments were temporarily repaired two years ago to add a few more years life to the foundation. The four batter posts are badly deteriorated at sidewalk level and several girders (verticals and laterals) are twisted and/or badly bent."

In voting for the design study, council also agreed to consider some method of saving the existing structure for historical reasons. Arlene Borgstede, president of the St. Albert Historical Society, said later that because the bridge has been rebuilt so many times it's actually the site and not the structure that has the real historical significance.

Province pulls up short

Preventative Services budget cut

An over estimation of funding from the province will mean that several local Preventative Social Service (PSS) programs must be eliminated or reduced.

City council learned at their August 20 meeting that the provincial director of PSS, Dennis Maier, has only allowed Alberta municipalities a six per cent budget increase.

As a result, council was forced to ratify a revised 1979/80 local PSS budget that eliminates $15,390, thereby bringing it in line with provincial allowances.

The programs most dramatically affected are: Senior Citizens Centre, losing all of its $5,070; Teen Centre, losing all of its $2,560; and Mother's Day Out, losing $3,200 of its $9,080 allowance.

Administration funds have also been reduced, largely by cutting travel, car allowance and substance portions of their budgets.

The city's superintendent of social services, Charles Gale, noted in his revised budget proposal that, "The allowable six per cent increase is a considerable deterrent to the future development of our social services program."

Council agreed, noting that in the cases of the Senior Citizens and Teen Centres, the only remaining funding will come from the city's utility payments. Other efforts will be made to provide some extra municipal funding and council will be trying to get the province to revise its six per cent cut-off.

The present limit, said Alderman Bill Shields, penalizes communities which are growing faster than six per cent.

enough information about them is available yet. Also special servicing equipment would be required for the European-made vehicles.

In any case, said Alderman Roger Ayotte, it's a fact that three conventional buses are needed now, and the articulated buses could be ordered later. "I think we'd better get our orders placed for these (regular) buses now so we can relieve the pressure as soon as possible." He also questioned whether regular buses are, indeed, in short supply in Canada. Delivery of the conventional buses could take 10 to 12 months.

Council approved purchase of the three buses and agreed to consider buying articulated vehicles in the future. Mrs. Bakker voted for the motion, saying she was pleased that council wasn't going to "throw the articulated buses out the window."

Yellow isn't mellow, says council

If you're not a fan of yellow street lighting, then city council's decision on them Monday night should make you happy.

Acting on a Committee of the Whole recommendation, council agreed to ban the lights from residential streets and collector roads because homeowners may find them objectionable.

At the committee meeting last week, the members agreed that the yellow sodium vapor lighting could use as much as 40 percent less electricity than the conventional mercury vapor lights but, they said, "it's an aesthetic question versus dollars."

The sodium lighting is still permitted on the city's arterial roadways.

WHAT GOES UP

"I knew I should've kept those skis on"

Council approves Foundation requisition

Senior citizens' rights became an unexpected issue at Monday night's council meeting.

Alderman Liesbeth Bakker said council's reluctance to approve a $12,960 requisition from the Sturgeon Foundation, the organization responsible for seniors homes in the MD of Sturgeon, was completely unfair to the people that deserve financial help the most.

"The senior citizen of today is the person that ... built the society that is blooming today," Mrs. Bakker told council. And as such, she said, they deserve whatever help that can be offered them.

"That's not what we're saying at all," responded Alderman Roger Ayotte. "I just want the foundation to be accountable to us."

Accountability, he said, meant that the foundation shouldn't be asking for money for a debt that hadn't even materialized yet. The board's requisition included start-up costs for the partially-finished St. Albert seniors home, the remainder of start-up costs at the new Morinville home, regular costs at the Legal and Gibbons homes and "a little left over for unexpected expenses," said Alderman Margaret Smith, council's representative on the Foundation board.

Most of council agreed that the correct procedure for the board to follow was to pay its bills and if it ran out of money then to borrow funds and ask for them back from council next year.

Any other procedure, said Alderman Bill Shields, would be "pre-paying a deficit that we're not exactly sure it'll be. There's not too many governments that ask you to pre-pay a deficit before you incur it."

Mrs. Smith agreed, but argued that the board had been responsible for only one seniors home just a short while ago and the addition of two and soon three more had strained its limits of experience. "Maybe we should've been more attuned to deficit financing."

She noted, however, that only a part of the requisition would go towards a debt that hasn't materialized yet -- stemming from St. Albert home's start-up costs. The rest of the money, she said, would be spent on present and near-future debts.

"Although it's against all accounting principles," Mr. Ayotte said he'd go along with the 'advanced requisitioning' plan, but only for this year. Other aldermen agreed, providing that the foundation would be careful to learn from its present financial situation.

St. Albert's $12,960 requisition represents slightly more than have of the total requisition in the MD: $24,000. St. Albert's share, to be used for 1979 and 1980 expenses, represents 22 percent of the total 1979 requisition.

We want more, says council

Copies of Edmonton's first four annexation reports aren't the easiest thing to get a hold of.

Alderman Liesbeth Bakker told city council Monday night that only Edmonton and surrounding municipalities' city halls and public libraries will be getting the reports.

How, she said, can citizens of St. Albert mount an effective attack against the annexation bid if the only way they can view the reports is by continually going to city hall or the library?

City Manager Bob Byron didn't have the answer. "How would they (Edmonton) begin to anticipate the demand for such documents?" he asked. Neither Edmonton nor St. Albert wants to waste time and money copying the reports unless citizens really plan on using them and that's difficult to tell he said.

"If citizens are willing to pay for copies, can't we let staff help them (by copying them)?" asked Mrs. Bakker. Making copies one at a time would be a great waste of city staff time, Mr. Byron said, and making "50 or a 100" of them at once might be too little or too many.

"Where do you go when it gets this thick?" he asked, placing his hand six inches above his table, "and then when it's this thick," raising his hand six inches higher, "because it will get that thick."

Regardless of its size, said Alderman Margaret Smith, "I think we have a right on behalf of our citizens to request adequate copies." There should be at least two in the library so that any interested residents can do all the copying they want, she said.

Mrs. Bakker, also a member of the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission, agreed to make the request for more copies.

The first four of 12 annexation reports were released at the beginning of this month, and the rest are expected in the coming weeks.

Petition draws little response

A petition against Edmonton's massive annexation bid, has only managed to gain 552 signatures after a two day blitz at the Grandin Mall last weekend.

Two St. Albert residents, Dianne Sonnenberg and Terry Beaudoin first circulated the petition in April, just after the proposal was announced. After a door to door campaign 1,300 signatures were collected, and this weekend was to have been the last chance for St. Albert residents to express their feelings on the annexation proposal.

Because of the poor showing, the petition will be placed at the Spinning Wheel in the Sturgeon Shoppers Plaza and at Crest Drugs in the Mission Ridge Shopping Centre for the remainder of this week.

The petition requests that a plebiscite on annexation be called to determine how St. Albert residents feel about annexation, and when completed will become part of St. Albert's submission to the Local Authorities Board when hearings begin September 25.

Total signatures now stand at 1,867, but that's far from the 10,000 Mrs. Sonnenberg and Mrs. Beaudoin would like to have, and far less than the two-thirds majority required to have a plebiscite called on the matter.

The Gazette REFLECTS

A Great Canadian is laid to rest today

Who will be our watchdog now?

That was the first thought that flashed through my mind as the news came over the radio that John Diefenbaker was dead. Who now will stand on guard for Canadians lest any action be taken to erode the power of our parliament, the basic pillar of our democracy.

Who will come to the defense of the poor and illiterate among us, that they may have justice under our laws equal to that of the greatest. John Diefenbaker was a lonely voice protesting in the House of Commons the internment of Japanese Canadians in World War 11, and great was the criticism heaped upon him.

Also remembered in those early moments was something surprising to me during the campaign which swept him to the greatest majority ever enjoyed by a Canadian Prime Minister. It happened in 1958 when Dief was campaigning in Ontario. In Ontario, not Saskatchewan, people would come up and touch his arm or shoulder - even his coat, and say "I just wanted to touch you Mr. Diefenbaker." The common people sensed his deep feeling for them, and instinctively trusted him.

When he was wrong they forgave him, and I believe it was because, as was said in his eulogy at the funeral services, - "He was sometimes on the wrong side - but he was never on the side of wrong."

Standing the day after his death on an observation point overlooking Diefenbaker Lake, with the Gardiner Dam the next stop, I thought about growing up in South Saskatchewan in the thirties, and about the two men.

Jimmy Gardiner was a strong performer on the hustings, and had the ability to build an exceedingly strong Liberal party machine. Diefenbaker, with his ready wit, and often cutting retorts, was also a formidable campaigner, but was scornful of Gardiner's "pork barrel" politics. He preferred to bulldoze his way through directly to the people, paying not enough heed to the wishes and the maneuverings of his Conservative Party. His stubbornness and his inability to work with the party hierarchy would later be his undoing.

The Dam-Lake project on the South Saskatchewan River was a tremendous undertaking, completed after nine years work in 1967. It has proved a great blessing to a large portion of the Province.

There are some writers and commentators who are saying that it is impossible to judge how history will record the career of John George Diefenbaker. The thousands upon thousands of Canadians who stood and waited for hours just to see his train go by, and make a gesture of their respect, have already given indication of how the future will judge the chief.

The principles he held fast throughout a long life, and despite the many failures and frustrations that marked his determined strivings, may be considered by many in modern society to be old fashioned.

Modern society has chosen to elevate youth over age and thereby have the young lost an appreciation for the value of learning wisdom at the feet of their elders.

Honesty, determination, a sense of humour, faith in God, courage to fight for his beliefs, compassion for the underdog, and a deep respect for justice and fair play - these are virtues that carry the seed of greatness.

We have today laid to rest a man of the people who, I am persuaded, will go down in the history of our land, and of many other lands, as a great Canadian.

Canada following States into economically slow period

Canada is following the United States into a period of economic slowdown or recession, says the Bank of Montreal's August Business Review.

Following an extraordinarily long period of economic expansion, it now appears that "The U.S. economy has gone into recession." Economic growth fell at an annual rate of 3.3 percent in the second quarter of this year after a weak gain of only 1.1 percent in the first three months.

The major U.S. indicators all point to weakness, says the Review. After being strong last year, "job growth is decidedly weak." With inflation cutting deeply into spending power, retail sales have "turned abruptly weak."

ker," especially car sales. Falling real incomes have also cut into housing sales as have sharply rising house prices and mortgage rates.

While the gas shortage in the United States has been an obvious negative factor over the past few months, the build up of stresses in the late stages of the expansion - principally inflation - meant that "considerable weakness would have emerged in any event."

In Canada, the impressive 7.2 percent annualized rate of growth in the first quarter was largely the result of rapid inventory building and the dipping into savings by consumers. Neither of these are likely to sustain growth from now on. In fact, says the Review, from "the looks of many of the monthly indicators, the gain (in the second quarter) will be marginal at best and possibly even negative." Employment growth has slowed, purchasing power is badly eroded by inflation, exports are suffering from the U.S. slowdown, the previous vitality in manufacturing output is on the wane, and the housing sector is depressed.

The Review argues that "a significant push on the monetary and fiscal policy levers" in an attempt to counteract the emerging recessionary period would "exacerbate the inflation problem." Expansionary policies would also put downward pressure on the dollar and increase the size of the government's deficit.

Hospitals entering political arena

The annual convention of the Alberta Hospital Association, slated for Calgary November 28 - 30, appears to have added a new dimension this year.

A story in the Association's newsletter "Hospitality" states that "The time has come for hospitals to enter the political arena, to be true to their conscience, to stop reacting, and to start initiating positive action to ensure that the quality of patient care in Alberta will be safeguarded."

The story goes on to say that hospital administrators and trustees must acquire a knowledge of the political process in order that their "non-partisan" action can be organized and directed. Delegates to the convention will determine how and to what extent they will proceed with political activism.

Reason for the decision to put politics on the agenda is explained by pointing out the "stifling effect" recent government policies have had on health care in Alberta. As part of the "establishment of government philosophy dictating that the growth of health care expenditures must be contained ... new ideas, programs, and services proposed by hospitals have not been expanded to meet demand. Health care consumers have not been aware of the effects that political decisions have had on their health care system."

Speakers scheduled for the November convention that have been confirmed to date are: Judge E. N. Hughes, former Canadian Hospitals Association president (key-note address - "Politics and Patient Care"), Dr. Rodney Schneck, Department of Business Administration, U of A, ("Board Autonomy"), Dr. Leland, University of Colorado Medical School, ("Fighting Trustees Needed") and Health Minister Dave Russell.

Fire vandals anger church

Braeside Presbyterian Church is going to get tough with teen-age vandals.

"We're definitely going to prosecute next time," says the church's lay leader, Bill Bissonnette. "The Christian thing to do is to take the kids home and talk to their parents but this time it's gone beyond that."

"This time" means last week's fire at the church on Bernard Drive when a sign, a railing and several cedar shingles on the side of the church were set on fire.

"Before, garbage has been thrown around and windows have been broken but arson is a whole different matter."

Mr. Bissonnette noted that just 20 minutes before last week's fire was set, the church was filled with 60 children for vacation bible classes. At the time of the fire his wife was alone in the building.

The damage to the church might have been far worse, Mr. Bissonnette said, if neighbours and passing motorists hadn't called the fire department and using an extinguisher on the blaze.

Since the incident "We've been maintaining a bit of a vigilante patrol in the evenings," he said. Already teen-agers have been found drinking around the church and leaving bottles and debris on the property.

"We're looking at a new $250,000 church. What'll we do then, hire guards?"

Unfortunately, Mr. Bissonnette says, incidents like that at Braeside are "a sign of the times. It becomes a normal thing." He said he's hoping vandalism will decrease when school begins in a couple of weeks. "They're doing it because they're bored out of their minds because they've got nothing to do until school starts again."

"That's right," says Sergeant Ron Lawrence of the St. Albert detachment of the RCMP. "There's a big, big difference when kids go back to school. You give a kid even 24 hours with nothing to do and something will happen." He said the incident at Braeside Church was one of several lately but it's typical for this time of year.

The charred shingles show part of the fire damage to Braeside Presbyterian Church.

Terminal approved, despite traffic fears

City Council approved construction of a $95,000 indoor bus terminal Monday night despite claims from Alderman Liesbeth Bakker that the project could be an "unmitigated disaster."

The terminal building, to be located east of the present Grange Drive-Gervais Road outdoor bus facility, will be about 40 feet from the cement islands where passengers will board buses.

That distance from the terminal to the islands, Mrs. Bakker said, will be a dangerous one. "People in a hurry will have to cross in front of every bus in the terminal."

Mrs. Bakker suggested that the terminal building should be located on one of the two cement islands, thus placing bus patrons right next to the boarding platforms. She admitted, however, that this plan could be costly because installation of the necessary underground servicing would require tearing up the blacktop that's already there.

"It causes me a bit of dismay," responded Alderman Barry Breadner, "when nit-picky alternatives, at least I believe, are put forward at this time." He noted that it had been stressed that if the terminal was to be built before winter, plans for it must be approved quickly.

"We have to get something in this winter," added Alderman Margaret Smith.

"There's no way that council can approve this (Mrs. Bakker's alternative) without a two week delay."

Alderman Roger Ayotte suggested that pedestrian crossing areas might eliminate Mrs. Bakker's fears about traffic hazards. "I would much rather that people had a designated crosswalk at the top of each island," he said.

Mrs. Bakker rejected his plan, saying "I would suggest that Alderman Ayotte ride several buses into Edmonton and see how they work. He needs it."

However, council defeated Mrs. Bakker's proposed amendment to the terminal plans and voted to award the contract to B. J. Graham Construction. The aldermen also agreed to ask city staff to investigate any safety precautions that might be implemented at the terminal.

TO THE EDITOR

CONGRATULATIONS ST. ALBERT

The writer was one of the participating seniors from Zone 3 (Calgary) at the recent Alberta Games held in your beautiful city. It had to be a very proud moment for Mayor Harvey and Chairman Fowler as they spoke at the opening of the Games. An outsider, plus the hundreds of St. Albert volunteers and other citizens in attendance could not help but feel the deep emotion of pride as each spoke on that historical evening for your city, August 2. It was indeed a never-to-be-forgotten weekend and on behalf of all seniors attending and participating we wish to register through this letter our grateful appreciation for a job well done. Your hostesses in particular, whether at Newman College, at the Games, or as Golf Referees were so concerned for our every need, not just an "on the job concern" but one that caused each of us to feel we were special. In total, all volunteers we came in contact with came through 100%. Congratulations to one and all, from the very young to the 60 plusser, a great undertaking well done.

Sincere congratulations to the grounds keepers wherever their services were required. St. Albert just looked beautiful, so many trees, everything so colorful and clean and, especially to the people responsible for your well located golf course. Every green was manicured and the fairways just wonderful. The hills and dales of your city add so much to its beauty. I for one hope you remain as St. Albert forever.

Congratulations too, to the people who fed so many with such good food and always with a cheery word and a big smile, even at 6:30 a.m. You were the tops.

Lastly, (please forgive if I have overlooked others), The St. Albert Players who put on the Salute to St. Albert. I have seen many performances in my time for which I paid as high as $13 for a seat and either the sound was poor or I couldn't see around the person ahead or something else, in your natural amphitheatre I enjoyed a "perfect performance" with a total view and perfect sound. The cast and the casting was outstanding not to mention the costumes and the innovative setting and props - Yes, Mr. Editor, I could go on and on as I'm sure you well know, however, let us stop here and say that St. Albert's Mayor and Council, et al, The Alberta Games People plus the hundreds of volunteers caused us all to have a never-to-be-forgotten warm spot in our memory for you all.

May God Bless You, everyone and may your efforts be rewarded in the binding of your residents for the future so that you forever stand united for your wonderful future ahead.

Day care subsidy policy set

City Council has approved a policy for subsidizing day care in St. Albert, including guidelines for eligibility, fees and administration.

The prime criteria for use of day care will be net family income levels but priority will also be given to families with only one parent, with children having special behavioral problems or with parents with special medical needs.

For the first year, the minimum charge for day care in the city will be $20 per child per month and the maximum will be $210 per child per month. An after-four program from September 1 to June 30 can ask for as much as $95 per child per month and an after-four program from July 1 to August 31 can charge $189 per child per month.

A grid of income 'turning points' has also been included in the one agreement, setting out levels of income in families in relation to the number of parents and dependents over which some increase in fees must occur.

The St. Albert Community Services Department will process all applications for the day care family subsidy program. The processing is necessary following the provincial government's shift from subsidizing day care facilities to subsidizing day care applicants.

Parent advisory groups must be formed at each day care centre and each facility must provide the city with an annual audited financial statement.

The Community Services Department will deal with and monitor all day care facilities participating in the subsidy program. An appeal board will also be formed to deal with administrative decisions.

Cancer Society branch formed

A group of concerned St. Albert citizens have banded together to form a branch of the Canadian Cancer Society. At a meeting August 16 the group formed an executive and delegated certain responsibilities in preparation for an October 1st start.

The branch, which will operate out of members' homes, will be supplying dressings, wheelchairs, hospital beds, etc. to local residents who suffer from cancer. Until now these services were available only through the Edmonton branch which will continue to oversee the St. Albert operation until the local group gets its feet firmly set. It is expected that the St. Albert branch will become a "full fledged" unit after one year of operation.

Officers of the newly formed branch are: Addie Griffiths, president; Pat Smaddon, vice-president and treasurer; Anne Marie Vene, patient services chairman; Candace Way, education chairman and Kathi MacMillan, campaign chairman and secretary.

The Society is seeking volunteers to assist them in providing patient services to St. Albert. Anyone who would like to lend them a hand is urged to give Addie Griffiths a call at 458-3025.

The education end of the Society's work will receive a good deal of attention during the coming months. As with all other services of this nature, the public must be made aware of what is available and how to go about obtaining the services. Those wishing to become involved in helping cancer victims, those who might be potential volunteers, and those who must live with a cancer victim will also be the objects of the educational program.

Council unanimous in naming track

St. Albert's new track and field facility has been named after the man that, more than anyone else, probably made the Alberta Summer Games what they were this year.

Fowler Athletic Park, city council decided Monday, was by far the most attractive name for the new facility since it honors the Games 1979 chairman, Richard Fowler.

At their meeting, council noted that Mr. Fowler should be honored not only for his Games work but also because he's one of St. Albert's former mayors.

Mr. Fowler is on a much deserved holiday, reports his law firm, and so was unavailable for comment on this new honor.

Other names that council considered for the Sir Winston Churchill Avenue site were: Summer Games Athletic Park (or Field), The Doug Gilbert Memorial Track, Sir Winston Churchill Athletic Park and Churchill Athletic Park.

FIRM TO RENT CITY'S PROPERTY

If you're renting property from the city your cheques will be going to Williams Property Management Limited soon.

That company has taken over control of renting the city's property following city council's approval of an agreement between the two at Monday night's council meeting.

Williams Property Management will receive 11 percent all of rent received by the city for its buildings and land. Regular maintenance will be their responsibility but major repairs may be carried out by city staff.

HEARING SET FOR HOTEL/DINING COMPLEX

A public hearing has been set for September 17 to discuss the construction of a motel and dining complex behind the Touch Inn on the St. Albert Trail.

The proposed project from Golden Flow Developments would include a multi-level motel located parallel to the highway and parking levels with a restaurant and banquet room above them to the north of the motel. The development would be 'L' shaped. The present Touch Inn would be retained as storage space, according to Golden Flow's George Koch.

FUNERAL HOME PASSES FIRST STEP

City council gave first reading to a bylaw Monday night that will allow construction of a funeral home near McKenney Avenue and Highway 2.

The bylaw, which rezones land owned by the Oblate Fathers from institutional land use to restricted commercial land use, will allow a section of the land to be subdivided for the funeral home.

A public hearing for the bylaw has been set for September 17. Approval from council and the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission is still required. It's reported that the Edmonton funeral directing firm, Connelly-McKinley Ltd., would be operating on the site.

COUNCIL APPROVES RIEL SERVICES FUNDING

City council gave first reading Monday night to four bylaws that'll allow issuance of debentures to pay for roads, curbs, gutters, street lighting, landscaping, water and power distribution systems and storm and sanitary sewers in Stage 11 of Riel Industrial Park.

The debentures, all of which pay at 12 per cent over a 20 or 25 year period, total $2,228,865.

DEPUTY MAYOR APPOINTED

Alderman Liesbeth Bakker has been appointed as St. Albert's Deputy Mayor following a vote at last Monday's city council meeting.

DOWNTOWN BUILDING APPROVED

Drayden Holdings Ltd. has been given permission to construct a 16,840 square foot commercial and office building at 18 and 20 Perron Street.

Council approved the project by approving a development control resolution at their August 20 meeting.

Thumbin' a ride around the world

By Carla Bit

Hitch hiking is considered to be a cheap and convenient way of going from city to city or around the country, but it's not often that one finds someone who has decided hitch hiking is the best way to travel around the world -- literally.

For Judy Anderson, 26, hitch hiking has become a way of life, and after 20 months on the road, you could consider her a hitch hiking expert.

A native of Dowerin in Western Australia, she dropped into St. Albert last week to visit with friends she had met during her travels in England.

She's no ordinary hitch hiker, sticking out her thumb and accepting any ride that happens to come along, she's become selective and extremely proficient.

"I don't just jump into a car and I have refused rides," she said. "One develops an ability to assess a good or bad ride. Sometimes with men you can tell they want to provide more than the ride, but I just make it clear where I stand and usually tell them I'm expected somewhere or have friends waiting."

Miss Anderson's no novice at hitch hiking having travelled since she was 18. This is her first large scale expedition though she says it may be difficult for her to return home and take up a more traditional way of life.

"I think I'll be able to do it for a while but after a few years I think I might want to move on again. I know I'll be going back home not having seen many countries I would have liked to."

Her parents, she said, were very supportive when she broke the news about the trip to them, and while she's never been homesick, her parents now write her letters asking when she'll be coming home. She says she'll probably go home at the end of this year or when she runs out of money, whichever comes first.

A social worker by profession, she saved for nine months before venturing out on her trip. On $5,000, and by carefully managing her money, she's so far, only spent $4,000.

Miss Anderson travels light, carrying 30 pounds in her back pack which contains a sleeping bag, ground sheet and at times, a small cook stove. Her wardrobe consists of two pairs of jeans, two summer and winter tops, shoes and a parka.

"I've had to give up some of the luxuries, like deodorant, make-up and a bath and change of clothes whenever I want," she said. "The reason, I think, I've been able to manage so long is that I've learned to budget carefully, eating only the most economical of foods, avoiding meat, sleeping out whenever I can and not buying any new clothes."

She carries only a few toiletries, a bottle of shampoo and conditioner and some face cream. She's also been able to avoid one of the worst tourist traps going -- souvenirs.

"I couldn't afford them to begin with and second of all, they'd be too heavy to carry around."

Hitch hiking, she claims, has given her a great opportunity to meet all kinds of people with interesting tales to tell and despite her long stay on the road, she says she's never encountered any problems. "I'm sure I've been in some potentially tricky situations and I've met travellers who have had bad experiences, but I haven't had any problems." She claims that she's never waited long for rides, and listens to what the locals may say about the area has helped her.

She's travelled in cars, vans, and even spent five months travelling with friends in a truck around Africa, but has never been offered a ride on a motorbike. Many are surprised at the length of time she's been on the road.

As vehicles don't move on water, she's been forced to take planes when crossing large bodies of water. When she left Australia, she flew to Malaysia and then Greece. Since starting her travels, she's been to Egypt, Switzerland, through France, England, Scotland and Wales. She uses London as a base, though she's never stayed there longer than three weeks at a time.

Three to five months is all the time she'll usually spend in a country and she decided to come to Canada after having met some Canadian travellers on the road. Her stay in Canada has taken her to Ontario, Quebec, Vancouver, the mountains and Edmonton. She even managed to slip down to the United States for two weeks.

She returned to Toronto this week, and after spending some time with friends there, she'll move on to the Maritimes and then back to London.

Miss Anderson admits that her way of travelling may not be for everyone, but offers this little piece of advice to anyone who may want to try it.

"You have to be adaptable. Take every situation as it comes and accept it for what it is. There are a lot of different things to see out there, and if you aren't prepared to take them in stride then you'd better stay home."

Yellowhead vs Trans-Canada

A report out of the Yellowhead Interprovincial Highway Association makes travel via that route appear much superior to that along its southern counterpart, the Trans-Canada.

Statistics quoted in the report show that the Trans-Canada suffered through 179 closures in a three year period ending March 31, 1979 while the Yellowhead route recorded none at all. The statistics apply to mountain parks only.

The report says Yellowhead communities are experiencing increasing volumes of tourist traffic and also suggests truckers and bus drivers using the northern route have little cause to fear costly road closures as experienced on the southern route.

Australian Judy Anderson is very attached to her back pack, after all, it's her home away from home. It carries about 30 pounds of necessities needed during her 20 months hitch hiking around the world. She's off to Toronto this week and expects to return home to Australia at the end of this year.

St. Albert's Bruin Inn: 94 years of memories

By Jeff Adams

In the 1950's when St. Albert's population was less than 2,000, at least 600 would be downing a beer at the Bruin Inn on a Friday or Saturday night.

"People would be lined up at the door, down the street and across the (Perron Street) bridge to the chapel, just to get a drink," says Albert Hauptman, whose family owned and operated the Bruin for almost 30 years.

In those days there was no highway and the hotel was right along St. Albert's main road: a dirt-covered Perron Street. Large crowds gathered at the hotel, Mr. Hauptman said, because liquor laws then prohibited mixed drinking in Edmonton but allowed it in rural areas like St. Albert. "So if you wanted to sit down with a woman for a drink, you had to head for the country."

"The crowds would just flock out here," he said. They'd sit down anywhere, on people's laps or on boxes. Some people would buy a couple of cases of beer just to have something to sit on, and then spend the night drinking them up."

In those days, Mr. Hauptman said, the hotel would go through five kegs of beer during the week but then another 50 over the weekend. "We had 17 waiters working the weekend shifts."

The Bruin Inn's accountant, Jean Moore, says she can still remember several details from that period. "It had one of the biggest floor spaces for drinking in Alberta then."

Mrs. Moore said the drinking area was quite modern by 1950 standards, since extensive renovations had just been completed in 1948. Much of the present northerly half of the bar and dance floor were added and indoor toilets installed.

A water line from Edmonton was also completed during the fifties, making it much easier for the hotel to handle the weekend crowd of drinkers. Up until then, Mrs. Moore said, all water had to be hauled in and stored.

The present Bruin Inn was built in the early 1930's but hotels on the site date back almost 100 years. The St. Albert Hotel was constructed there in 1885 and operated by David Chevigny. Thirteen years later, Mr. Hauptman said, it was destroyed in the first of several fires and rebuilt by Nazaire Asselin and E. Chevigny.

The second fire in the early thirties led to the present Bruin Inn. A third fire in 1971 didn't destroy the hotel, but led to further renovations in the upstairs rooms.

Mr. Hauptman said the 1930's fire started in the basement heating system, sending gas to the upper floor and attic. "It was a miserably cold January day. The pilot light had gone out about 7 a.m. and a couple of hours later things were going pretty good." An upstairs office and one room were gutted, but the rest of the Bruin survived.

"Everybody said 'here's the Bruin going down again' but a few hours later we had tradesmen here and we were back in business by the next morning."

In its earliest years the Bruin (or St. Albert Hotel) had competition from at least two other places. In 1890 the Astoria Hotel was built where the Bank of Montreal now stands. It burned in 1911 and was replaced by the Royal Hotel, which lasted for several more years. Mr. Hauptman says a second operation, DerMarco's Hotel, did business at 75 Mission Avenue for some time.

There's very little of the St. Albert Hotel or early Bruin Inn still around. Mr. Hauptman says he has a painting and a clock from the first hotel, but almost everything in the Bruin now has come since the 1940's.

With one exception. Several chairs in front of the present bar date back to 1933 when they were brought over from Poland. "I just never bothered to replace them while I owned or managed the place," Mr. Hauptman said. Nor has the Bruin's present manager and owner, Ben Starkman, or his partners, mother Molly, brother Ben and brother-in-law Jack Soroka.

Mr. Hauptman says many people have suggested over the years that the old chairs should go, replaced by something a little more modern and elegant. "But I always had a philosophy about them. I figured if they were too dressy a working man couldn't come in and relax in them. The way they are, he can sit down and have a comfortable beer."

The hotel's present Klondike motif dates from the last renovations in 1969-70. Paintings of western dancing and bar girls adorn the walls and old-style, swinging doors complement the decor.

Upstairs the stucco walls and ceilings, complete with dark wooden beams, recall old Spain or Mexico. Mr. Starkman and Mrs. Moore's office is decorated with a huge Aztec design that sets the tone for the whole floor.

The rooms certainly aren't luxurious but at seven to 10 dollars a night they're reasonable. Mrs. Moore says most of the hotel's overnight clientele are workers stationed in the area temporarily. Highway travellers usually don't come there, she said, because it's too far off the beaten path.

The Bruin Inn's days of being a well-known hotel are probably over. No desk man works in the lobby anymore and the stone fireplace that served as a friendly meeting place is unused. Liquor laws have made it impossible to cram 600 people into the bar on a Saturday night and St. Albert has grown far too large to fit its population in at any time.

But it's still a popular place, especially with weekend entertainment now. Crowds don't stretch across the bridge, but they're large enough to fill most of the chairs on a Friday afternoon or evening. Even after almost 100 years, it'll probably be a long while yet before the Bruin closes its doors for good.

"A Beautiful Balance of Food For Body and Mind"

The Bruin's Predecessors

The Bruin Inn's predecessor, the St. Albert Hotel, was a wood-frame structure when built on Perron Street in 1885.

Thirteen years later the second St. Albert Hotel was built, this one also wood frame but far more impressive. This photo was taken from the Astoria Hotel across the street where the Bank of Montreal now stands.

The Bruin Inn, then the St. Albert Hotel, as it looked at 6:30 on a sunny August evening in 1930. Not exactly crowded!

This is a predecessor of the present Bruin Inn? Taken in 1922, the photo shows the second St. Albert Hotel's banquet room, complete with wedding cake and Union Jacks.

Vietnamese family finds freedom in Canada

By Carla Bit

For the Hoang family, the uncertainty of life in Canada can never be as bad as the poverty and lack of freedom in strife-torn Vietnam or the squalor of a refugee camp.

Nam Quan Hoang, 29, his wife, Van Thi Le, 25, their daughters, four year old Chinh Ty, three year old Tyet Anh and a cousin, Hoa Quy Phan, 25, arrived last Tuesday at Namas, along with 195 other Vietnamese in the first plane load of many "boat people" flights expected before 1980.

Speaking through an interpreter, Dr. Hoa Nguyen (one of the only two Vietnamese doctors in Edmonton and who himself has only been in Canada for three months) the Hoang's and their cousin explained why they chose to get out and what kind of life they expected to find in Canada.

The Hoang's have the distinction, dubious though it may be, of coming from one of the most bombed cities during the Vietnamese war -- Hanoi in North Vietnam. Mr. Hoang is also an ethnic Chinese, though his wife is Vietnamese, and as China now rules Vietnam it's hard to understand why life would've been so difficult.

"We needed freedom," said Mr. Hoang. "In Vietnam we could do nothing and could have been shot for anything. We were about to be shifted to what the government called 'a new economic zone'. I could not have found work there and my children could not have gone to school."

With a group of 113 other ethnic Chinese friends, they managed to organize enough money and supplies to buy a sail boat and on April 11 set sail - nowhere in particular, just out of Vietnam and to anywhere that would take them.

"We heard stories about boats which were left out at sea with nowhere to go, many even dying, but we sacrificed our life back home to take this chance."

For two months the group sailed on, but at one point the boat, not as seaworthy as they'd expected, started taking on water and they had to pull into China to make repairs.

NEW CANADIANS

Nam Quan Hoang, left, his wife, Van Thi Le, and cousin Hoa Quy Phan, left for Calgary on Friday to begin their new life. Their task is doubly difficult compared to other "boat people". They're unsponsored and have only one month to find a job and a new place to live.

CAMPLIFE

They arrived in Hong Kong by mid-June and remained for about two months in a refugee camp in Hong Kong. There they met members of the Canadian delegation and were selected for immigration to Canada.

Before they met the Canadian contingent, they explained they endured the Please Turn to Page A12

Continued From Page A11| most inhumane conditions in the camp, even though Hong Kong is considered to have some of the better refugee camps.

"Men were always getting beat up by the guards and there was never enough food or medicine," said Mr. Hoang. "When we were able to sneak in some food, like noodles, it was alright, but if the guards caught us they would throw sand in it or confiscate it for themselves."

"Men who were able to get cigarettes and were caught were often ordered to eat them while they were lit. Sick children could have no medicine and many died, as there would always be long lines to see whatever medical help was available."

The Hoang family isn't as lucky as many others who've come to Canada. They're unsponsored and as such, must find work and a place to live on their own.

The Department of Employment and Immigration has resettled them in Calgary and will give them a place to live and support them financially for only one month. After that, it's up to them to make their way in their new country.

Everything is all very new to them, but they welcome Canadian kindness and friendship and are determined to contribute something to the country which has adopted them. Here at least, no matter how difficult it may be at first, they say they now have a future.

"We could never think about the future in Vietnam," said Mr. Phan.

"There was never enough time to think with the war. You just lived life to pass the time."

In the north, the war raged for over 30 years and the Hoang family only knew war.

"The war interfered greatly with our lives," said Mr. Phan. "All available reserves went for the war. There was never enough food because everything went for the war."

He estimates that if they had the chance, 80 to 90 percent of the Vietnamese people would escape. The only people left, he said, would be the communist supporters.

Poverty was a way of life and it's ironic that Mr. Hoang and his cousin were construction workers, building structures only to be bombed in the next air raid.

They brought no money or jewellery with them, taking only some clothes and leaving behind only a small house and cooking utensils for Van Thi Le's father, the only living relation they have left in Vietnam. They hope that when they're settled they'll be able to sponsor his immigration to Canada.

They have no relations in Canada to aid them either and they're totally on their own. Their first order of business will be to learn English and find work.

"It is all very strange here, but we expected it would not be easy," said Mr. Hoang. "We like Canada very much. It is beautiful, but what is most important, is that we are free. We can go where we choose and build our life the way we have always wanted."

Moon to turn red on September 6

In February of this year, North Americans were able to witness an eclipse of the sun. This September, the other type of eclipse -- a total eclipse of the moon -- will be visible throughout North America and the Pacific Ocean. Total lunar eclipses occur when the moon passes through the shadow of the earth and are relatively rare events: the last total eclipse of the moon that was seen in its entirety from Edmonton was on the night of January 30, 1972. The next eclipse after this year's event will be in 1982. During totality at this or any other total lunar eclipse, the sunlight normally hitting the surface of the moon is cut off by the earth; the brilliant white full moon turns deep red as the light from all the sunsets and sunrises occurring on the earth at once illuminates the lunar disk.

The upcoming eclipse occurs in the early morning hours of Thursday, September 6, with totality lasting from 4:31 AM to 5:17 AM. The partial phases of the eclipse begin at 3:18 AM and end at 6:30 AM, 20 minutes before sunrise. Unlike solar eclipses, lunar eclipses are perfectly safe to look at with the unaided eye, binoculars or a small telescope. No special precautions need be taken.

During the eclipse, the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada and the Queen Elizabeth Planetarium will be hosting a public STARNIGHT: A number of telescopes will be set up in Coronation Park in front of the Planetarium for the public to use in viewing the eclipse close-up. The Eclipse Starnight runs from 3 a.m. to 6 a.m., Thursday, September 6. Admission is free.

For more information about the lunar eclipse or the Eclipse Starnight, contact Alan Dyer, president, RASC Edmonton Centre at 482-4209 or The Queen Elizabeth Planetarium 455-0119.

Learn French in your community

Albertans living anywhere in the province can now learn French in their own homes, thanks to Athabasca University. Through the use of radio, television (or video tapes) and telephone tutors anyone can pick up the French language without leaving their community.

No previous knowledge is required; you or any adult in your family can enrol in the "French for Beginners" course offered by Athabasca University. The course follows a simple system: watch the French lesson on t.v. (or on a video viewer), participate in the exercises, a day or so later review what you have learned by listening to the complementary radio broadcasts, use the cassette and the textbook, then do your French language exercises on the telephone with your Tutor and on paper. Before you know it you are learning French.

"French for Beginners" is designed to give you a basic working vocabulary so that you will be able to speak, read and write French. Last year more than 150 students learned French from this 24 lesson course. Enrollment begins in September.

Athabasca also offers an intermediate French course which uses 20 weekly radio programs, a language review and some French-Canadian short stories. This intermediate course is meant to improve spoken and written French especially in social situations.

Advanced students can take the senior course, "French 312," which helps them to perfect their use of the language.

Utilities to fund position at U of A

Alberta's three major power utilities have agreed to fund one academic position in the department of electrical engineering at the University of Alberta, beginning this fall.

About $45,000 will be provided annually by Alberta Power, Calgary Power and Edmonton Power to finance salaries, fringe benefits and research support for the power engineering position over a three-year period.

In return, the University of Alberta has agreed to fund a second similar position, and incorporate these positions into the regular academic body after the initial three-year period ends.

"Funding of educational projects of this nature is not normally the responsibility of electrical utilities," a power utilities spokesman said. "However, we have a strong interest in seeing that power engineering is given proper emphasis in the engineering curriculum. Since provision of quality electrical power service depends upon competent professional staff able to deal effectively with complex situations, a power engineering program of high standards at the University of Alberta is absolutely essential."

Dr. Myer Horowitz, president of the university, is enthusiastic about the project. "I might point out that precedents for this type of public sector involvement do exist," he said. "They include the Alberta Oil Sands Technology Research Authority, Alberta Gas Trunk Line sponsorship of academic positions in our Faculty of Engineering, and the recent Winspear Chair in our Faculty of Business Administration and Commerce."

"Direct involvement of public sector segments in this way enables the university to respond to particular concerns in a very effective way," Dr. Horowitz added.

Dr. Peter Adams, dean of the Faculty of Engineering at the university, is equally enthusiastic. "The university has made a commitment to continue these positions beyond the three-year initial period," he commented. "We are also making arrangements to ensure the continued involvement of the power utilities in teaching and research activities related to power engineering."

Representatives of the power utilities will join Dr. Bob James, chairman of the department of electrical engineering, and other members of the selection committee to screen potential candidates for the positions in the coming weeks.

Coe announces Citadel season

Artistic director, Pete Coe has recently announced the 1979-80 season at the Citadel Theatre -- our 15th anniversary!

Opening the season in the Shocter Theatre -- the world premiere of the Canadian musical Hey Marilyn! by Clifford Jones. Beverley D'Angelo, star of the movie Hair has been contracted to appear in the title role.

The rest of the Shocter line-up includes: Brief Lives, a play by Patrick Garland about the 17th century scholar and biographer, John Aubrey. This production, featuring Roy Dotrice has previously played on Broadway and in London's west end.

Hamlet, by William Shakespeare will be directed by Peter Coe as will The Trials of Oscar Wilde, an adaptation of the notorious trials of this famous author; Arms and The Man, the classic comedy by George Bernard Shaw, and the world premiere of One Tiger To A Hill, written by Sharon Pollock and based on a penitentiary hostage taking incident.

Peter Coe will direct the opening production in the Rice Theatre -- The World of Abraham Lincoln, by Herbert Mitgang. This one man show will feature Roy Dotrice in the title role.

Also included in the Rice season; the highly acclaimed Canadian musical Billy Bishop Goes to War written by John Gray and starring Eric Peterson; Jitters a new Canadian comedy about life in the theatre, to be directed by associate director Greg Rogers. The Trojan Women, the greek tragedy by Euripides and Macbeth by William Shakespeare. The production of Macbeth will continue on to tour Alberta bringing the Citadel Theatre to regional centres.

Gibbons to hold country music weekend

A bevy of Alberta grown country music talent will headline the Country Music Weekend coming up in Gibbons on September 8 and 9.

Country music lovers will be treated to the stylings of R. Harlan Smith, Chris Neilsen, Wilf Ingersol, Laura Vinsen and Jimmy Arthur Orde, Saturday night and seven additional artists, including Glori Ann Carrie, Larry Gustafsen, Joyce Smith, Tracy Gunderson, Gary Fjellgaard, Bill Herseh and Danny Hooper at a Sunday afternoon picnic.

Gibbons' Sturgeon River Agricultural Society in co-operation with Royalty Records of Edmonton and CFCW radio is sponsoring the event with money collected used to alleviate the Gibbons arena's $27,000 deficit.

Society spokesman, Lorraine Isley, said that the amount represents an annual payment to the federal government the Society was unable to make. Operating costs were higher this year and as the arena isn't run with tax money, it must find its own source of funds. Events like a rodeo and fair this year lost money, but the music weekend should be able to eliminate the debt or at least get a good start on it.

Events will kick off Saturday evening with a dance at the arena from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. The band will be Country Sunshine and R. Harlan Smith and Company will be appearing throughout the night. Refreshments will be served and advance tickets are $5 per person.

Sunday will feature a picnic running from 1 to 6 p.m. behind the arena, though if it rains, the picnic will be moved indoors. All 12 country artists will appear for five full hours of country and western music fun.

Bev Monroe, CFCW's morning man will emcee the dance and picnic while the summer sunshine van will be on the grounds with entry forms for the draw for a trip for two to anywhere in Air Canada's world, to be held in the fall. CFCW will also be on location telling people from outside the town how they can get to Gibbons.

Admission for the picnic will be $5 per person, advance sales only, and $6 at the gate. Children under 12 will get in free.

Advance tickets to the dance are limited and can be purchased with tickets for the picnic at Farley Mohawk on the Trail in St. Albert. The Bay ticket office, Mike's and the Royal Bank in Gibbons.

Fat Chants plays for Nicaragua

If you'd like an evening of food and music while supporting the Committee for Peace and Reconstruction in Nicaragua, here's your chance.

The committee is sponsoring a dance featuring Fat Chants at the Ukrainian Centre, 11018 - 97 Street on Saturday, September 8 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets cost $3 for adults and $1 for children under 12. All aid will be sent to the stricken country.

Pastor Valle-Garay, a professor at York University and the designated representative of the National Government of Nicaragua reports that the food crisis in Nicaragua is so severe that only the press, official delegations and returning refugees are being allowed back into the country.

The pastor notes that although President Anastasio Somoza's powerful grip on Nicaragua has been broken, the enormous task of reconstructing the country remains. Food and medical supplies are desperately needed. In leaving the country, Somoza destroyed much of the remaining supplies.

Some countries have offered reconstruction aid but Canada hasn't, the committee reports. Canadians who want to help the Nicaraguan people during this crisis can send donations to:

Peace and Reconstruction in Nicaragua, Edmonton Savings and Credit Union Ltd., Account #502894, 4 - 916 Ash Street, Sherwood Park, Alberta.

The committee says their are no administrative costs. Funds will be sent directly to Nicaragua, including those from the benefit dance.

Dillards, Hann, Bowers headlining festival

Quality music and a family atmosphere is how the organizers, Battle River Bluegrass Productions, describe the Summer's End Jamboree set for the Labour Day weekend.

Names already signed for the three day event (September 1, 2 and 3) include the Dillards, Paul Hann, Brian Bowers, Dave Essig, Dumptrucks, Sweetgrass, Frank Gay, Dianne Campbell, Mother Fletcher and Tom Jackson. Lost In The Colonies and Whiskey Ridge are also expected for the event which features free camping and parking, clowns and magicians for the kids and an arts and crafts show featuring artisans from across the province.

Scene for the musical gathering is the Opalinski Ranch just south of Mill

Woods at 9th Avenue and the Calgary Trail. Bluegrass and Country music fans will be familiar with the place from past gatherings. The festival site forms a natural acoustic bowl with areas for concessions, stages, seating, workshops and other facilities.

Maps to the site are provided on the tickets, which, incidentally, go for $25 at the gate or $20 in advance. Tickets are available from the usual vendors including Farlie Mohawk in St. Albert. Festival organizers are battling the bad name outdoor music festivals have been branded with in this province but feel the Summer's End Jamboree will change that reputation. The entertainers play no "rock" music, the main attraction to youths looking for a place to tear apart.

The arts and crafts show and sale, the clowns and magicians and the intermingling provided by workshops are far from conducive to rowdiness. An open invitation has been extended to craftsmen to attend the Jamboree and bring along their wares for sale. They may register before August 27 by phoning 469-9231.

As the organizers say, it is not the profit they are concerned with, but getting the Summer End Jamboree off the ground as an annual event. It is the music and atmosphere that are their main concerns, concerns that are quite obviously sincere.

The glitter and the gold

By Marty O'Kell

This is not the usual kind of thing that I do, spending a few hours at a dance school. But there was something that intrigued me, and I'm glad I went.

The folks at the St. Albert School of Dance informed the Gazette they had three "real good" dance teachers guesting as instructors for last week.

Normally, this kind of a story would be handled by the Gazette's entertainment editor, Vicky Knight. Vicky, though, was enjoying herself in the darkest parts of Ontario and Quebec.

With almost all of the other reporters out of the office, it became apparent that I, the sports editor, would have to switch hats and find out what was going on at the St. Albert School of Dance.

I was told the best time to go was just before noon. At that time, I would be able to talk with this fellow named

Louis DaPron.

I arrived at 11:30, with my trusty Canon A-1, walked in to one dance studio where Louis was teaching youngsters a couple of tap dance routines, and began snapping away photos.

Louis is a nice old fellow, 66 years young, and I stress the "young"; and as friendly as they come.

After he finished his session with the kids, we settled in the staff room for a hamburger and coffee, and began talking about his life.

That's where my fascination grew and grew.

Louis, apparently, is highly regarded in Hollywood, (where he lives). He moved to there from Oklahoma City in 1935, the son of a tramping couple, who had owned a dance school ever since Louis was born.

I guess Louis was very good, good enough to have taught people like the Osmond brothers, Mac Davis, Doris Day, Ann Miller, Ann Margaret, Mitzl Gaynor, Vera Ellen, Ruby Keeler and Donald O'Connor.

He told me he choreographed the tap dance routines on the last Bob Hope Special in January, starring Sammy Davis Jr., Debbie Reynolds and Pat and Debbie Boone.

His other credits include the choreography of the Smothers Brothers Show, the Jerry Lewis Show for one year, the Milton Berle Show, and others.

The glitter of Hollywood has always lit up my eyes, and Louis's stories were really doing a job on me. I listened closer and closer.

He told me of a story where Pat Harrington Jr., who plays Schneider of "One Day At A Time," was taking tap lessons at Louis's own school in Los Angeles. Pat had been taking the lessons for a few days, when this young man, about 16 years old and from Texas, came one day to begin his own lessons. Pat and this young man were working side by side, with Pat helping the kid out on some steps. After the session, Louis asked this boy if he knew who was helping him.

The boy said "no". Louis responded with "Pat Harrington Jr." The boy's eyes lit up, according to Louis. "Pat Harrington Jr.?" The young man was overjoyed. He was a fan of the "One Day At A Time" show, but didn't recognize Harrington out of costume and out of character.

But returning to the room in which we were sitting, Louis answered my question about the quality of kids at the St. Albert school. "I'm impressed. The kids seem to be so... well... adjusted and nice." He added "The older kids are quite good, the level is very good, very good."

I could tell he meant it, he seemed to be having an awful lot of fun. He told me that he had looked forward to this trip to Canada, to meet new people. Louis had been in Canada only once before. That was a long time ago when he was 19. He made a trip to Toronto.

He then told me he used to teach the new "Mouseketeers" on Walt Disney's TV hit "The Mickey Mouse Club," and he new Donald O'Connor since 1941. In fact, O'Connor's son had taken some lessons from Louis last year.

Gladys Smith, co-owner of the school with Alma Hughes, laughed about how she had asked Louis DaPron to send her a resume when they were searching for a guest instructor. She didn't realize who this man was until he sent her his credentials, in which he was very modest. After arriving, Louis casually mentioned in conversation some of the people he had been in contact with through his dance teachings. Gladys and Alma couldn't believe their ears! They had struck Gold!

The two other instructors are the husband and wife team of George and Helen May of London, England.

George is a well known choreographer of jazz dancing in England, and performs in many BBC TV shows and specials, including some of the ones that make it to North America.

Among his credits include appearances in several West End shows such as "Man of Magic" with Stubby Kaye, "Mama" with Ginger Rogers, "Cabaret" with Lila Kedrova, and "Good Old Bad Old Days" with Tony Newley. His TV career has included spots on specials with Ann Margaret, Sandy Duncan, Leo Sayer, Julie Andrews, Nana Mouskouri, Bob Hope, Leslie Uggams and Rita Moreno. On celluloid, he danced in "Scrooge" and "Oliver." And when he isn't doing something like that, he teaches with Helen at the Laine Theatre Arts College in London.

Helen, on the other hand, teaches mostly ballet. But she dances jazz in as many TV shows as George.

She recalled one scene she did in Paul McCartney's first television special a few years ago.

It was a scene where a group of dancers were painted black on one side of their bodies, and white on the other. One side was made up to look like a female, the other like a male. She said, "None of us dancers knew who each other were. We all looked the same. We could only tell each other by voice." (If you saw the program, it was the scene where Paul McCartney was wearing a "pinkish" suit).

"It was a lot of hard work, but a lot of fun."

About their stay in St. Albert, which is sandwiched in between a week in Florida and some time this week in Toronto, Helen said "It's lovely to see the good standard." George came in with, "They get a different style of dancing, which is good." Back to Helen, "There are no major corrections to make, because they are all good."

We talked some more about the St. Albert students, with both George and Helen saying the students there have not developed any bad habits, which they seemed to be quite happy about.

George has been dancing for 13 years and teaching for seven. He used to play a lot of soccer when he was in school, and his coach told him to take dance lessons to help his game and coordination. He did, and a time came when he had to decide whether he wanted to pursue a career in soccer or dancing.

"At the time, dancers were making more money than the players, so I chose dancing." He laughed and added, "Now it's a bit different."

Helen chimed in about how, in the mid-sixties, the players of Manchester United Football Club were forced to take dance lessons. It must have worked, because Manchester United was the terror of the league then.

Their life was very interesting to me. As I said before, anything to do with show biz fascinated me. And believe me, I was extremely fascinated.

I watched them conduct some classes, and the students seemed to love every minute of their expertise, and the manner in which they conducted the instruction.

Alma Hughes said to me, "The kids wished they (Louis, George and Helen) could stay forever."

I suppose it's unfortunate that the three were only here for one week of guest instruction, a lifetime would have been much better.

I know the students, some of which came from other areas of Alberta, were as fascinated as I was.

And I also know St. Albert was touched with a little of glitter and gold.

The presence of Louis DaPron, George and Helen May was the glitter, the glitter of show biz; while the gold were the benefits the students received from their ingenious instruction.

And ... a little fantasy for me.

Foreign buying of Alberta land down

The amount of agricultural and recreational land in Alberta purchased last year by foreign individuals and corporations declined by almost 96 percent from 1976 and 90 percent from 1977, according to figures released by the associate minister of public lands and wildlife, Bud Miller.

Parcels acquired in 1978 totalled 7,061 acres, compared with 64,180 acres in 1977 and 159,699 acres in 1976.

Mr. Miller said that the dramatic decreases were due to the introduction of temporary regulations in Alberta in 1977 to restrict the sale of prime agricultural and recreational land to non-Canadians. Permanent Foreign Ownership of Land Regulations were introduced this year.

Parcels acquired under the temporary regulations totalled 33,037 acres, of which 27,188 acres were due to the principle of no retroactivity in the regulations. This meant that agreements reached or in negotiation prior to April 26, 1977 were allowed to be completed. Of the balance, 3,129 acres were transferred on the basis of estate settlements, 1,131 acres were for resource-related developments, and 318 acres for such uses as new home subdivisions and industrial location. The final 1,271 were exchanged acre for acre for farm consolidation.

During the period of the temporary regulations, 35 Orders in Council making exemptions under the regulations were passed. These accounted for 10,145 acres of the 33,037 acres acquired. The remaining 22,892 acres were allowed due to exemptions built into the regulations.

Rural land acquired by permanent residents (those granted landed immigrant status) has remained virtually constant. In the last seven months of 1975 there were 22,917 acres acquired by permanent residents. For 1976, 1977 and 1978, the figures were 30,893, 33,660 and 29,659 respectively.

The amount of urban property acquired by foreigners has remained fairly constant as well over the last three years. During the last seven months of 1975, 15 percent of total urban property valued over $150,000 that was sold was acquired by foreigners. In 1976 this figure dropped to 7.4 percent, moved up to 8.5 percent in 1977, and then dropped back to 7.3 percent in 1978.

Save the Children Christmas Cards

Five uniquely Canadian Christmas cards, designed by children to help children during the International Year of the Child, are now available from the Canadian Save the Children Fund.

The illustrations were chosen by Save The Children from hundreds of submissions to the Canada-wide "All About Us" foundation, set up to encourage the development of talent among school children. The Canadian International Year of the Child Commission has granted permission for the official IYC symbol to appear on the cards, which are available exclusively through Save The Children outlets.

"A spontaneous delight in the pleasures of winter is captured in each card," said Robert D. Smith, the senior executive of one of Canada's largest non-profit public service organizations, who serves as this year's volunteer chairman of the Save The Children Christmas Card committee.

"The pictures emphasize the health, vigor and joy which is the birthright of most Canadian children. The International Year of the Child has drawn attention to the urgent needs of other, less fortunate youngsters. These cards give us all an opportunity to share a little love with them."

The Canadian Save the Children Fund has been helping children in need for 60 years. An independent member of the international Save The Children movement founded by Eglantyne Jebb in 1919 to aid youngsters left homeless by World War I, it now concentrates on ongoing sponsorships and self-help programs for children, families and commu-ities in more than 30 countries, including Canada.

The "All About Us" series is offered in conjunction with five additional Christmas card designs donated by established Canadian artists:

Ken Danby, Andy Donato, Stewart Sherwood, Brian Jones and Janette Weiler.

The cards, printed in Canada, cost $3 per package of 10 of a single design, plus envelopes. The greeting is printed in the five official United Nations languages.

Cards and free illustrated brochures are available from Save The Children outlets or from the Canadian Save the Children Fund, P.O. Box 31, Richmond Hill, Ontario L4C 4X9. Please make cheques payable to SAVE THE CHILDREN and add 15 per cent for handling and postage, plus provincial sales tax as applicable.

U of A preparing for conference on Heritage Savings Trust Fund

"Money," Henry Ford once said, "is like an arm or leg - use it or lose it."

Perhaps his statement will be taken into account at a conference on the $4.7 billion Alberta Heritage Savings Trust Fund to take place at the University of Alberta October 18 and 19.

The conference is being organized jointly by the university's departments of economics and political science, and the Faculty of Business Administration and Commerce.

Dr. Brian Scarfe, chairman of the department of economics, says the program is highly structured around the large number of basic political and economic questions that can be raised about the fund and its usefulness in the future economic development of Alberta.

Such questions would deal with ways of allocating the funds to alternative investment programs, the amount of the fund's resources which should be used to create social overhead capital, the allocation of the fund's resources between physical and human capital investment, and uses of the fund to support the social and cultural needs of a rapidly expanding population.

The keynote address will be delivered by The Hon. Lou Hyndman, provincial treasurer.

Additionally, 10 papers will be presented by representatives of the academic community, the Government of Alberta, and the financial community.

A. F. Collins, deputy provincial treasurer; Dr. Scarfe and Dr. Thomas Powrie, also of the department of economics; Andrew Kniewasser, president of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada; and Dr

Larry Pratt of the university's department of political science are among those giving papers.

The titles of the sessions on October 18 are: Economic Perspectives on the HSTF, Natural Resources Revenues: A Test of Federalism Revisited, and Portfolio Selection Issues (with special reference to the questions of the impact of the fund on capital markets and the appropriateness of foreign diversification).

On October 19, the sessions are titled The Economic Impact of Alternative Investment Strategies for the HSTF and The Political Implications of the HSTF for the Province of Alberta.

Other participants in the conference include Dr. O. S. Goldsmith, Institute of Social and Economic Research, University of Alaska; Dr. J. F. Helliwell, department of economics, University of British Columbia; Dr. J. P. Meekison, Alberta Department of federal and inter-governmental affairs; Dr. J.

R. Melvin, chairman of the department of economics, University of Western Ontario; G. L. Bell, executive vice-president, Schroder International Ltd., London, England; Howard Eaton, president of the Canadian Commercial and Industrial Bank; William Thorsell of the Edmonton Journal; and Dr. Myer Horowitz, president of the University of Alberta.

AMA asks government for strong energy and transportation plan

Officers of the Alberta Motor Association (AMA) have met with the Provincial Government Legislative "A" Caucus Committee to discuss the future of energy supplies and transportation planning in Alberta.

In a formal meeting held at Government House in Edmonton, the AMA delegation urged the Provincial Government to develop a strong voluntary conservation program, but asked that wholesale or retail rationing of gasoline be avoided except as a last resort.

AMA President Gordon Alexander says the purpose of the meeting was to draw attention to the fact that Alberta has been fortunate in not feeling the direct impact of world energy shortages, but should start reacting to the possibility of future tight supplies in Alberta.

"We have also asked the Government to divert a portion of its existing revenues from Alberta's current fuel supplies, into research and development of alternate energy sources, alternate power plants, and improving the efficiency of existing petroleum powered engines," says Alexander.

In conjunction with these requests the Motor Club asked the Government to develop a transportation and research facility for planning future, more efficient transportation modes.

"Alberta has become a leader as a provider of energy for existing transportation modes," says Alexander.

"The AMA believes that this position of stature could now be best asserted, by exhibiting leadership in planning alternate methods of transportation for future generations when our current generous fuel supplies run out."

Other topics of discussion during the meeting involved municipal taxation of motorists and the repeal of motorcycle helmet laws in Alberta, both opposed by the AMA.

The problem of impaired drivers and the future of seat belt legislation in Alberta were also reviewed.

Take care when home canning

By Paddi Mills
Consumer & Corporate Affairs Canada

A couple of years ago, four people died in Canada after eating improperly prepared marine products. They were victims of the deadliest form of food poisoning known to man - BOTULISM.

Every year there are reports of illness and death associated with Botulism and most are the result of eating food improperly preserved or canned in the home. Since it is home canning season again - the time is ripe for another warning to home canners. Work with care and caution.

How does it occur? Botulism toxin grows in low acid foods that have been canned without adequate heating. There are three prime conditions which encourage the growth of these deadly spores:

(1) Lack of air, which of course is the case in a sealed can or jar.

(2) Low acid environments such as that found in meat, poultry, mushrooms, and most vegetables.

(3) Temperature conditions of 40°F to 115°F also promote rapid growth - and it's wise to note that room temperature is well within this range.

To avoid Botulism poisoning from home canning this season - get a hold of a good canning procedures book, and follow every instruction down to the letter. Your local Department of Agriculture office in Morinville, 939-4351 has many such booklets and they are free for the asking.

Never, under any circumstances, use recipes with questionable processing techniques like those that suggest there is no need to heat process. Even if it's a recipe you have used for years - the risk you may be taking is just too high.

Vegetables, meat and fish should all be canned in a pressure canner. Simple boiling does not produce enough heat to kill botulism spores.

Check both the container and the contents of canned goods before you taste. If there is any sign of spoilage, do not taste - but throw.

And as an extra measure of safety - boil home canned vegetables for 10 minutes before you taste them.

Resident compiles book of St. Albert cuisine

St. Albert's chefs have gone public with their favorite recipes.

It started two years ago as a fund raising idea in the home of Mrs. Lucienne Brisson. Today, after hundreds of hours of work, the idea has reached fruition in the form of a 187 page bilingual recipe book titled, "St. Albert Cuisine." Le Cercle Francophone de Saint Albert, Alberta is the sponsoring society.

The book, which is written "about 60 percent" in English, contains 240 recipes submitted mostly by residents of St. Albert and area but also from friends of Mrs. Brisson across Canada. Mrs. Brisson stressed that the recipes were the "first choice from each lady."

Sprinkled throughout the pages is poetry by renowned Edmonton poets, brothers Guy and Jean Pariseau.

Recipes range from those for drinks - Bog Fog? (orange juice, vodka and cranberry cocktail over ice) to casserole to delicious desserts including chocolate eclairs, crepes Suzette et barres de chocolat fources aux fruits.

The book is also full of helpful hints and each recipe gives directions in both metric and imperial measures. There is also an English explanation of French cooking terms.

Mrs. Brisson says the recipes involve "simple, good cooking, accessible to all budgets."

The books, which incidentally are selling quite quickly, are available by phoning Mrs. Brisson at 459-8046 or Mrs. Desrou-ers 459-6070. They're $6 each.

Living With Change

By Pat Doerksen
District Home Economist
WHAT DOES CLOTHING MEAN TO A CHILD?

A well dressed 6 to 12 year old child is better mannered, more self-confident and less rowdy than a poorly dressed one. As children approach school age and enter a world of playmates and classrooms, their dress should suit the role they will be expected to perform. The clothes they wear play a part in their adjustment in social growth and influence their mental health.

Children want certain things in their clothes which help them in this social development.

Desire to Conform: The child wants his clothes to conform to the style worn by his playmates. The school age child is intensely motivated to gain acceptance from his peer group. If a child is dressed very differently from his associates he becomes self conscious and has a feeling of anxiety and inferiority. These characteristics often carry over into adulthood.

Children need to develop socially. Clothing can help the child in his social development with children his own age, school teachers and others. Children at this age, especially girls, become independent and opinionated concerning what they will or will not wear. Conforming to the group is still important, but there also is evidence of a desire to be different which makes for unpredictable behavior.

Easy To Manipulate: A child wants his clothes to be easy to manipulate. Children may become impatient if dressing takes too long or if they have to obtain help in dressing. "Self-help features" and "like friends" seem more important for the daughters than the mothers. Their clothes should encourage independence in dressing and give them confidence in doing for themselves.

Comfort Important: A child wants his clothes to be comfortable. The most disliked clothes are those which hinder muscular skills. Loosely fitting garments bought for a child to grow into are just as disturbing as those which are too tight. Clothing purchased too large also may become faded or worn looking by the time the child grows into them. Poor fit is the reason most frequently given by young children for not wearing their clothes. Many mothers place more emphasis in children's clothing on appearance than comfort. Lightweight clothes are desirable. Heavy, bulky clothes are awkward to handle and excess weight tires a child at play.

Durability: Clothes for children should be durable and capable of standing hard wear. A child is not interested in a dainty, fragile garment if it means that he must sacrifice fun to wear it. Today, fashion in commercial clothing, especially for girls, seems to take precedence over durability, comfort and suitability of design for the age of the child. Read the clothing label to look for fibers that are either cotton or polyester or a blend of these two fibers. The clothing should also be easy to launder. Check the care labelling.

Attractive Features: A child desires clothes that are attractive. The school-age child wants attention if it is favorable. The fear of being laughed at is one of his greatest fears. Social approval is most important to the school-age child. Attractive clothes affect the child's own behavior as well as the behavior of the group toward the child. The basis for fashion is determined largely by what members of his group are wearing.

The older elementary school child still wants comfort in clothes; however, he begins to show an interest in style. The younger child prefers bright colors and decorative effects, while the other child tends to select pale colors and more simple designs. Suitable clothes can make childhood a delightful period. They may contribute to developing the character and self-confidence of the child. Clothes may influence his mental health by encouraging him to accept responsibility, to co-operate and to contribute.

In the kitchen or on the barbecue

Make a meal with ground pork

A pound of pure ground pork is a good buy these days. It can be the basis of many a taste tempting meal. Best of all, it's both economical and nutritious.

Ground pork is made from good red muscle meat, usually from the pork shoulder or from trimmings made when the butcher cuts the wide variety of chops and roasts that we all enjoy. No fillers or other additives are added. It contains a large proportion of first class protein which is necessary for growth and health. It is also an excellent source of the B vitamins, thiamine and niacin which are essential for healthy nerves and appetites. Iron and phosphorus, minerals that make good blood and bones are there in good supply too.

When you take ground pork home from the store remove the plastic wrap and cover the meat loosely with waxed paper. Refrigerate until you're ready to cook it. If you must keep it for more than a day or two wrap it in freezer wrap and freeze quickly. Thaw it in the refrigerator before cooking.

Use it in any of your favorite hamburger recipes. Substitute it for an equal amount of ground beef, veal or lamb. Barbecue it, use it in meat loaf, as meat balls, in spaghetti sauce, on pizza, in casseroles or in a very special Tourtiere.

The recipes that follow feature ground pork and are sure to please family or friends. Enjoy!

BARBECUED PORK BURGERS

Allow 1/4 pound ground pork per patty. Season to suit your taste or leave pork unseasoned and brush with your favorite barbecue sauce.

Remember, it's important to make the patties thick, about one inch is suitable. Cook them slowly about six inches above the coals. You'll find that 20 minutes on the first side and 10 minutes on the second side is about right. The meat should not be pink inside. If you put foil loosely over the patties as they cook they'll be juicier.

Barbecue sauce brushed lightly on the patties just before serving will add flavor to the meat yet won't char and add a burnt flavor.

Menu Suggestion - Serve on toasted barbecue buns. Offer a good variety of "fixins" including shredded lettuce, cheese, tomato slices, relish, mustard, catchup, onion rings, green pepper rings etc. etc. Pass ripe olives, carrot sticks, celery and pickles. For a beverage serve icy cold milk or iced tea. Fresh fruit for dessert will complete the meal.

OLD STYLE SKILLET SAUSAGE CAKES WITH APPLE RINGS

1 lb. ground pork
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs or wheat germ
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon salt grated rind of 1/4 lemon 4 teaspoon sage tart cooking apples

Mix pork with all ingredients except apples. Form into meat balls, then flatten to make patties. Roll patties in flour, then pan fry till well browned (extra fat is not needed). Remove browned patties to heated platter.

Peel and core apples. Slice 1/4 inch thick (or thicker if desired). Fry apple slices in pan drippings until just tender. Place a slice of apple on each sausage cake. Sprinkle with finely chopped parsley. Serves 4.

Menu Suggestion - Serve with buttered new potatoes and green beans which have been drizzled with Italian dressing and sprinkled with croutons. For dessert serve Easy Peach Melba (a peach half on top of a scoop of vanilla ice cream, garnished with melted and strained raspberry jam).

MAMA MIA SPAGHETTI SAUCE (For 2 pounds spaghetti)

1 pound ground pork
1 pound ground beef
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1-28 oz. can tomatoes
1-12 ounce can tomato paste
1 teaspoon oregano
1/2 teaspoon marjoram
1/4 teaspoon rosemary
1 clove garlic
(or 1/2 tsp. garlic powder)
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups water

Brown meat, pour off excess drippings. Add other ingredients and simmer 2 - 2 1/2 hours - or until thick. Serve over cooked spaghetti;

Menu Suggestion: Serve in the traditional way with a flavorful tossed green salad. In the summertime make the salad with garden fresh spinach and other fresh salad vegetables. Pass an assortment of salad dressings. Serve toasted French or Sourdough bread. For dessert prepare a light lemon flavored pudding or sherbet.

Natives finally receive treaty entitlement

Under the terms of a 1977 federal-provincial agreement with Saskatchewan on outstanding treaty entitlements, a 9,605 acre parcel of federal Crown land has been added to La Plonge Indian Reserve No. 192. The land, for the use and benefit of the English River Band, is adjacent to the reserve and is the first parcel of land to be transferred under the agreement to Indian reserve status.

La Plonge Reserve No. 192, located 150 miles northwest of Prince Albert, was set apart for the English River Band in 1930. Prior to this recent transfer the band held six reserves comprising 15,631 acres of land. Under the terms of the 1977 federal-provincial agreement the English River band is entitled to an additional 44,145 acres, of which this recent transfer forms a part.

The question of outstanding treaty land entitlements has been of long duration in all three prairie provinces. Under the provisions of the treaties signed between Canada and the Indian people in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta between 1871 and 1906, reserve lands were to be set aside for the Indian bands which were signatories. However, while most bands did receive full land entitlement under treaty, some did not.

This situation was recognized in the 1930 Natural Resources Transfer Agreements between Canada and the prairie provinces. At that time, the provinces assumed an obligation to set aside, out of unoccupied Crown lands which had been transferred by Canada to the provinces, such lands as would enable the federal government to fulfill its obligations under the treaties.

The process, however, has never been completed. At the request of Saskatchewan bands, and in view of federal government policy to fulfill its responsibilities flowing from the relevant Indian treaties, in 1975 the Minister of Indian and Northern Affairs approached the three prairie provinces, requesting their co-operation in settling this situation.

After consultation with the Federation of Saskatchewan Indians, the province presented a proposal to the federal government for consideration. In 1977 agreement between both parties was reached on a formula for settlement. This formula allowed outstanding treaty land entitlement to be calculated using band population figures as of December 31, 1976, multiplied by the per capita acreage as set out in the applicable treaty in Saskatchewan, less the amount of reserve lands which have already been received.

Of the 68 bands in Saskatchewan, the F.S.I. has advanced land entitlement claims for 25 bands. To date, 15 bands have been involved in selecting lands which might be added to their reserves. These bands are the Canoe Lake, English River, Witchehan Lake, Peter Ballantyne, Fond du Lac, Stony Rapids, One Arrow, Red Pheasant, Keeseekeoose, Muskowekwan, Piapot, Lucky Man, Nikaneet, Thunderchild and Little Pine. The total land involved could be in the range of one million acres. Discussions are continuing to finalize the identification of which bands are entitled to receive land under treaty.

On-the-job fatalities down

The Canada Safety Council reports that in 1977, the number of on-the-job fatalities in Canada decreased for the third year in a row, to a low of 819, from 957 in 1975. The 10 year average to 1977 was 1,014 fatalities. While the reported number of occupational injuries was higher in 1976 than in 1975, a small reduction occurred in 1977. The rate of injuries per 100 workers employed was also lower than in 1976 but still higher than in 1975.

Of the total of 1,036,897 injuries, 476,997 were disabling to some degree, either total, partial, temporary or permanent. In other words, one in every 20.57 workers suffered a disabling injury.

One in every 11,982 Canadian workers died as a direct result of his or her job in 1977. In addition to this, one in every 9.46 Canadian workers was injured. This compares with one fatality for every 10,287 workers and one injury for every 9.22 workers in 1976, and one in every 6,275 and one in every 8.7 respectively in 1974.

This information comes from the latest (preliminary) occupational injury and fatality statistics released by Labour Canada.

These injuries or illnesses occurred among persons gainfully employed and happened during the course of, or arose out of, their employment. The figures apply only to those workers covered by Workers' Compensation, which is approximately 90% of the workforce.

"The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, the world and those who dwell therein."

Psalm 24 starts with these words. It then goes on to describe This Might and Glory. It ends with the words: "The Lord of Hosts,
He is the King of Glory."

As we introduce ourselves to the community of St.

Albert, we are aware especially of the first verse of this Psalm. To live in the knowledge that all of this world and all of our lives are under God's care and guidance.

We are a number of families who used to worship in Edmonton. But we feel we should worship in the place where we live, and there be a part of the community. To humbly seek our path, looking for God's will in our lives and seeking wisdom from this word for all areas of life, whether that be politics or business, education or relaxation.

We are aware of God's many blessings from day to day, to name a few, our economic prosperity, our freedom, the wonders of nature around us. We are also aware of our fellowmen, here and abroad, who sometimes are in such desperate needs. There too, we seek to do His will.

Our first services you will find announced on this page.
We are grateful indeed for the use of the "Wild Rose" Elementary School. For some time we will be served by ministers of the Christian Reformed Church of Northern Alberta. In the near future we hope to have a minister of our own.

During the morning service we plan Sunday School for preschoolers and grade 1 and 2. During the afternoon service a class for grade 3 and 4 and a class for children with special needs. We also are planning club activities for boys and girls during the week. And Bible study groups for adults.

We invite you to come and worship with us in the "Wild Rose Elementary School."

Walking Winnipeg

Winnipeg is about 1400 road miles from Montreal.
It's a good three day trip by car. Imagine trying to walk from Winnipeg to Montreal! It's a lot further through the bush but in 1814 an incredible strong man walked to Montreal and return. The 3600 miles, he considered, was in the course of duty. In the St.
Boniface Museum is the sword, sash and pouch used by this walking Winnipeg.

Lord Selkirk who established a settlement of Scots at Winnipeg was in Montreal. Word of impending trouble must be sent to Selkirk. A Metis buffalo hunter, Jean Baptiste Lagimodiere offered to carry the mail. He left on Hallowe'en night. The lakes were frozen, so living off the land was pretty tough in the sub zero cold.

Each night he cut spruce boughs and slept in the snow. Each day he had to catch his food. He slipped and fell through the winter. When he arrived at Lord Selkirk's house during a formal ball, Jean staggered across the floor and delivered the message to Selkirk. He looked like a wildman, unshaven, unwashed for five months, stinking of life in the wilderness. After a brief sojourn in Montreal he returned to Winnipeg, the hard way. Thirty six hundred miles to deliver the mail.

Vice President of the

Commissioner.

The problem of engine overheating

Most cars have a common problem, especially during the heat of the summer when motorists sometimes end up jammed bumper to bumper on the highways. It's called "engine overheating" and it's caused by the engine coolant getting too hot to permit it to efficiently bring down the temperature of the engine.

FIRST WARNING

The first warning of engine overheating usually comes when the temperature gauge or the temperature warning light either reaches the danger zone or comes on. When that happens, you don't have too long before there's a very real danger of expensive engine damage.

suited for either traffic jams on the highway or when you're forced to creep along at a very slow pace, is to turn the car heater and fan to the highest setting. It may make the car a bit uncomfortable inside, but it's the fastest way there is to draw off the engine's excess heat.

built up could easily blow the coolant right out the opening and you could be severely burned.

Post Office issues Inuit stamps

Canada Post will issue four new 17-cent postage stamps in its Inuit commemorative series September 13. This issue continues the Inuit series begun in 1977 with the theme of hunting and continued in 1978 with the theme of travel.

Two of the new stamps will carry the theme of "shelter" and two the theme of "community" (people together).

On one of the shelter stamps, an Inuit soapstone sculpture from Povungnituk depicts the winter igloo; and on the companion stamp, a Cape Dorset Inuit print shows a summer tent.

The community theme is conveyed on one stamp by two Repulse Bay soapstone sculptures depicting the Inuit Drum Dance, while the companion stamp uses a Holman Island print called "The Dance."

All four stamps were designed by Reinhard Dereth. An issue of 20 million of each will be printed in five colour lithography.

The pane layout of both shelter and community panes is 50 stamps se tenant, with each of the two stamps of the pane appearing alternately across and down the pane, checkerboard fashion.

As with previous stamps in the series, the aim of Canada Post is to portray the Inuit way of life as seen through the eyes of Inuit artists.

DIFFERENT SOLUTIONS

There are, of course, a number of different solutions to the problem but, in general, two work best.

The first, and most common, is to pull the car to the side of the road, shut off the engine, and open the hood to let it cool off. This takes time, but it's safe and easy. After the engine has cooled, the driver can check the coolant level in the radiator. He can also check the engine oil level.

Another way, which is best

In "stop and go" traffic, turn on the fan and heater as soon as the car shows signs of overheating. If it reaches the danger zone or the light comes on, put the car in "neutral" and step on the gas pedal very lightly with both the fan and heater on "high." This makes the engine run slightly faster than a normal idle and will dissipate the heat at a much faster pace.

Safety Reminder: Never take the radiator cap off when the car is overheated! The pressure that has been

DAVID AND AGNES BOLLE

By Carmen Morin
On July 14 St. Emile Roman Catholic Church in Legal was the scene of a double ring ceremony, when Agnes Rivard, daughter of Eddy and Aline Rivard of Legal, became the bride of David Bolle, son of Camille and Yvonne Bolle also of Legal.

Rev. Real Levasseur, performed the ceremony before an altar graced with bouquets of yellow glads, white carnations and baby's breath. Few markers were complemented with yellow daisies on white satin ribbon.

Soloists were Mrs. Raymond Rivard and Miss Louise Douzich, accompanied by Claudette Bilodeau on the organ.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was radiant in her gown of kiwana jersey with a keyhole neckline, cap sleeves, A-line skirt which fell into a chapel length train trimmed with Guipura lace. Her only jewellery was a cultured pearl on a gold chain.

She carried a white fan of red roses, baby's breath and red nose roses on white satin streamers.

Maid of honor was Miss Louise Douzich, a cousin of the bride, bridesmaids were Pauline DeChamplain and Rose Marie Pelletier, two close friends of the bride. They wore floor length gowns in soft green made of polyester silk with pleated shoulders and wing sleeves with cummerbund waistline. Complemented with off white boat hats trimmed in green netting and tied back in a satin ribbon bow. They carried fans of yellow orchids and baby's breath.

The groom looked handsome in his white tuxedo, white frilled shirt with black trimming, complemented with a carnation and red rose boutonniere.

Attending the groom were Robert Champagne, cousin of the groom, Kevin Campbell, also cousin of the groom and Leo Prefontaine, friend of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother chose a long gown of light green polyester chiffon, featured a deep-V neckline and long sleeves accented with simbidian orchid corsage. The mother of the groom wore a floor length gown of light beige chiffon with long sleeves, complemented with sonia red roses corsage. Ushers were Remi Bolle, Patrick Keane, Allan Keane Jr. and Kevin Bolle.

Leo Provencial, brother in law of the groom read the scripture readings. Later a reception for 200 people was held in the Morinville Recreation Centre, and a dance followed.

Master of ceremonies, Norman Rivard, brother of the bride spoke with well chosen words to make Agnes and David's very special day a most memorable one.

Daniel Rivard, brother of the bride, presented a toast to the bride, with a little reminiscence of the past childhood of the bride. Best man, Robert Champagne then proposed a toast to the bridesmaids. Raymond Rivard welcomed David into the Rivard family and Gary Bolle welcomed Agnes into the Bolle family.

For their honeymoon trip to Penticton, B.C., the newly weds changed into matching blue suits with yellow roses en corsage. The happy couple will make their home on an acreage west of Legal.

Gift opening was held the next day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Camille Bolle. After the opening of the gifts a beautiful lunch was served.

PIN THE TAIL . . . ?

No, it's not a pin the tail on the donkey, but a very humorous game of donkey baseball, held in Bon Accord on the weekend during Threshing Days. The locals of Bon Accord couldn't find enough donkeys around, so they had to settle for ponies. It didn't matter anyway, as the beasts weren't briefed on the rules of baseball.

Press banned from meetings

MD Council voted last Thursday to close all committee meetings to the press and public from now on. The motion to hold such meetings in camera was made by Councillor Walter Wolansky. Committee meetings can make recommendations only, which must then come before a regular and open meeting of council for adoption. However, if held in camera, it would no longer be possible for the public to hear, or for the press to report, the discussions held and the positions taken by individual councillors during meetings which can set MD policies. Only the voting would need to be done when a committee recommendation came before council at a regular meeting.

Comments at Thursday's meeting cast some doubts on how factual the Gazette's reporting was. No specific incident was discussed, but some comments were made before the meeting convened about an editorial which appeared August 9. It suggested that MD councillors were shifting some of their responsibilities to the public works department.

The editorial was based on the following motion passed at the August 2 meeting: "... that the department of public works (see box) set up some criteria ... on roads in subdivisions, thereby taking some responsibility off individual councillors."

When last Thursday's meeting convened the editorial wasn't mentioned. However two councillors did comment that the newspaper didn't appear to be performing its role as a news vehicle.

Said Councillor Lawrence Kluthe, "I would suggest the newspaper report the news rather than create the news." Councillor Walter Van de Walle added that, "I think our ratepayers deserve better. I think they deserve the truth."

All councillors present except Walter Jerram supported the motion. Mr. Jer-ram, when contacted later, felt the press was being discriminated against with the motion. Mr. Van de Walle, also contacted later, continued on page B4

Gazette retracts

There is a great deal of difference between MD council having its Public Works COMMITTEE set up criteria on roads in subdivisions, and having the Public Works DEPARTMENT set up criteria. The committee has four councillors on it - the department has none.

Therefore the editorial department was careful to check with the reporter on the "Hewitt Estates Residents Want Taxes Accounted For" story in the August 9 issue. The reporter stands on what she heard was "Department," as taken in her notes.

However what is equally clear is that the intent was to have the public works committee establish the criteria. Because, in fact, it is the committee which is working on the matter.

Councillor Walter Van de Walle told the Gazette this week that the suggestion made to council (by Councillor Walter Jerram) that levies and taxes collected from subdivisions go back to those subdivisions, was presented without any recommendations on implementing such a policy.

What is needed he said, is a comprehensive overall plan, taking into account the great differences between individual parcels, with only a few country residences, such as are common in Division 6, and large subdivisions covering many acres. Only so many miles of road can be improved in a given season.

Therefore, said Mr. Van de Walle, it was completely natural for council to ask the public works committee to gather information and prepare suggestions on the matter for council.

It is perhaps unfortunate that Councillor Clay Crozier's motion to have this done included the phrase "thereby taking some responsibility off individual councillors," which prompted the editorial comment. Sometimes what a person says does not come out quite the way it was intended, which happens to a lot of us.

The Gazette hopes that the MD Council will reconsider its move to close committee meetings, which we believe would be best for all concerned - councillors, the paper and the readers.

Council comments on annexations

MD council is opposing an annexation bid in Gibbons but is delaying its decision on whether to oppose or support annexation in Legal.

Legal's proposal involves 80 acres southeast of the village and comes on the heels of a previous annexation involving 200 acres made three months ago. The Local Authorities Board (LAB) still hasn't made a decision on whether to approve or refuse this request.

This second annexation is only in the planning stages and hasn't even come before village council, though planning consultants have had preliminary discussions with the Edmonton Regional Planning Commission.

A public hearing hasn't been set yet and the MD is postponing its stand until the Development Committee can meet with representatives from Legal on questions it may have on land use and servicing of lots.

The Gibbons annexation involves five quarters of land east and west of Highway 37 and is being proposed by owners of the property. Two quarters west of the highway are owned by Greater Harwood Properties and the three east of the highway are owned by Marlo Developments Ltd.

The annexation seeks the balance of land requested by the town of Gibbons in November 1978. Only three of the eight quarters requested were granted by the LAB with the decision effective January 1, 1980.

Mayor Reg Austin of Gibbons, wasn't surprised the MD will oppose the new annexation bid as it also opposed the town's proposal in November.

"It was fully expected that they would oppose it," he said. "It would have been a shock if they had supported it."

"The MD opposed the earlier annexation on the grounds that we didn't need the land for development. They felt we were anticipating more development than would materialize."

As it stands, the January 1 annexation will only allow planning for an additional five or six years, not enough lead time, said Mr. Austin, if the town is to do any long range planning.

Another reason the MD is opposing the annexation, though it's one Mr. Austin feels won't hold, is that the additional five quarters takes in agricultural land. It's an assumption Mr. Austin feels is inconsistent as the MD recently supported a 2,600 acre annexation for an industrial park north of Fort Saskatchewan.

That too, said Mr. Austin, was good agricultural land.

Public hearings on annexation will be held on two successive evenings, September 18 and 19 at 10 p.m. at the Town Hall in Gibbons and at that time, the MD and residents will be allowed to make their presentations.

Heritage Lake still polluted

Public Works to meet with Environment

The MD's Public Works Committee has agreed to meet with representatives of Morinville town council and Alberta Environment to try and solve the drainage problems into Heritage Lake.

Signs advising people not to swim in the lake were posted in late July after the Sturgeon Health Unit found a high level of fecal coliforms, human waste in all but the southeast corner of the lake. People are still swimming and fishing despite the signs.

Morinville council asked councillor Paul Underwood to meet with the Sturgeon Health Unit to determine where the pollution was coming from and how it could be stopped. He's on holidays and hasn't made his report yet.

It was thought that campers dumping sewage into the lake is the likely source of the pollution, but a drainage ditch dug across the service road from the Glenmore Industrial Park early this spring hasn't been ruled out.

Morinville councillor Mary

Ann Balsillie met with the Public Works Committee August 10 and briefed them on the situation. She requested that something be done to aid drainage from the park so that it doesn't enter the lake in future.

"We are concerned about the drainage problem as there was natural drainage into the lake before the lake was built," she said. "We are trying to prevent cuts into the lake because of the pollution problem and would possibly like to have any water drain north along the road into the ditch the lake drains from."

Alberta Environment has already banned cuts into the lake and the railroad, she said, doesn't want the water to run alongside the tracks.

The committee agreed the problem should be settled soon and will meet with interested parties whenever a meeting with Alberta Environment can be arranged.

Road conditions prompt meeting

The MD's Public Works Committee and the Sturgeon School Division's bus drivers committee will be meeting soon to talk about the condition of MD roads and the threat they pose to school children's safety.

The meeting was prompted by a letter from the school board to the MD Council requesting that all roads on which school buses travel be upgraded.

At their August 8 meeting, school trustees were concerned that many roads are in such poor condition that no buses should be using them. "I'd have to agree they have a concern," said Councillor Walter Jerram.

But, said Councillor Walter Van de Walle, "That means that regardless of the condition of the roads now, they must be upgraded." Many of them don't need the extra work, he said.

"I have some difficulty with the (upgrading) motion because it (the board's letter) is so general," added Councillor Lawrence Kluthe. "It really doesn't say anything." A more specific idea of which roads need work is essential, he said, and the best solution is a meeting of bus drivers and public works representatives.

No decision on fire truck

The MD's fire committee still hasn't decided where the old Morinville fire truck will be moved once the town receives its new engine in late September.

The new unit was due to arrive early this summer from Calgary and a decision on where to put the old unit was to have been made at that time. Delivery problems forced the delay of the unit and the committee has decided to wait until closer to the delivery date before recommending where the old unit will go.

The fire committee's report was accepted as information at the MD council meeting Thursday, as was a letter from Bon Accord's fire chief, Ken New.

Bon Accord is the most likely place for the old engine, although Manor Estates and Calahoo are also vying for the unit. It's the only village in the MD without an MD fire truck or a fire protection agreement.

Four years ago talks on an agreement broke down and the town purchased its own engine. It only serves the village and responds to no outside calls. Backup protection is supplied from Gibbons and Legal, which have MD units.

In his letter, Mr. New stated that not answering calls outside the village, despite being asked to on a number of occasions, was fair to the ratepayers of Bon Accord who subsidize the truck. He added he had village council support and the support of the ambulance service in requesting the unit. The ambulance now occupies the second fire bay, which could be used to house the fire truck.

MD council refused, however, to make a decision until the new unit has arrived and referred the proposal to the fire committee for further study and recommendation.

Mistaken identity

Last week the Gazette ran a front page picture of a cowboy riding a bronc at the Gibbons Haymaker Rodeo. At least five readers phoned to tell us that the event was bareback and not saddle bronc, that the rider was Darrell Harrison and not Rick Goad and that the horse was Peggy Sue and not Dirt Farmer. It's amazing we got the location right with a batting average like that! And then to top that off, the phone started ringing to let us know the clown shown on an inside page wasn't Lee Nilsson of Tennessee, but, Bill Paul of Edmonton. The only good we could see in all of this was the obvious fact that The Gazette is certainly well read.

WAIT, WAIT !!!

Some players in Bon Accord's donkey (or pony) baseball game had difficulty getting to first base. This player had the task of mounting a rather exuberant pony more intent on finding greener pastures than following in the footsteps of Ruth and Gehrig. Players and fans enjoyed a thoroughly entertaining afternoon of crazy antics like the one pictured here.

Proposed Gibbons school east of river

If Gibbons residents are worried about a recent report that a school may be built in largely uninhabited land west of the river, they can blame the Gazette and not their elected officials.

The August 9th story entitled "Board considers school site for Gibbons" was supposed to state that the proposed school, expected within five years, was to be built east of the river and west of Highway 37.

The Sturgeon Division School Board, the Gibbons Town Council and the owners of the land, Daon Development Corporation and Gibraltar Holdings Limited, are working on the school site decision together.

ROUGH SUSPENSION

Young Kim MacFarlane of Radway rode to a 58 in the junior steer riding event in the opening day of the Redwater Krazee Daze Rodeo. The fine weather helped the whole weekend to be a tremendous success.

Residents meet with MD No satisfaction guaranteed

By Carla Bit

Residents of Hewitt Estates, an acreage subdivision northeast of Morinville, chose a low key approach when they met with MD Council last Thursday to discuss concerns they have with conditions in their area, especially roads. In the end, they left only partially placated that some of their requests would at least be looked into.

Don Tufford, spokesman for the group, many of whom brought their children, requested an accounting of taxes; where the money was being spent and most importantly where the $500 off site levy charged to developers had gone.

"There is a problem with our road system; it's the pits," he said. "There are some oiled sections but there are pot holes everywhere."

Where there aren't pot holes, he said, roads take on a washboard effect, making it impossible to drive and causing frequent car repairs.

"It just seems the MD's getting a lot of extra tax assessment but our roads aren't very good," said Mr. Tufford. "It brings us back to our original question. Where is our tax money going?"

Reeve Bill Flynn could only give vague answers that their tax money "goes into general revenue, distributed throughout the municipality, the same as everyone else's."

This isn't the first time the issue of Hewitt Estates' roads has come before council. Walter Jerram, councillor for the area where the subdivision is located, brought it up at a development committee meeting several weeks ago, but was told that Public Works would look into the matter of all subdivision roads.

The MD's policy is to pave subdivision roads only when the area is 75 percent occupied. Hewitt Estates is slightly over 50 percent developed, though construction is continuing.

Residents present at the meeting agreed with the MD's recommendation that most of construction be completed before roads are paved, though they did wonder what type of maintenance was planned for these and the two access roads leading out from the subdivision.

Most acreage owners commute to Edmonton and use 50th Street or the last three miles of SR 642 from Morinville to link up with Highway 28. These two roads are in poor condition because of truck traffic going into construction sites in the subdivision.

"It would be nice to have one smooth route and I see no reason why we couldn't have the truck route go up 50th only," said Mr. Tufford.

Here, at least, they received some support, though no immediate aid. Council said that the Public Works Department was in the process of isolating one of the two access roads solely for passenger traffic by doing a traffic count, and residents were thanked for their input into the matter. Choosing of an access road, however, will also only come when the subdivision is 75 percent complete, possibly by next spring.

Mr. Flynn, warned residents, though, that the issue of oiling roads in the subdivision and those used for access should not be confused. Roads within subdivisions, he said, will be oiled according to the development agreement while councillor Lawrence Kluthe added that the oiling of access roads is based on need.

"Residents must petition council and convince them that their particular road requires attention." All grading equipment, he added, is working at capacity and it would not be feasible at this point to invest in new equipment.

"We are dealing with an $8 million budget with 60 percent going to education," he said. "We are caught in a bind. What we may need is more judicious use of our grading equipment."

In addition to roads, Mr. Tufford also pointed out residents' concerns about fire protection, road signs and guard rails on some roads, but he was only promised that these things would also be looked into.

Two hundred show for sewer study meeting

Although only 25 were expected, over 200 residents of Viscount Estates, three miles northeast of St. Albert, showed up for an information meeting last Tuesday night to discuss the installation of a sewer system for the area.

MD officials were kept busy making additional copies of the study while the meeting later had to be adjourned to Morinville Centre as the tiny committee room downstairs in the MD building was too small to hold the crowd.

John Podmore of Podmore

Engineering Ltd., told residents the sewer system would cost $1.4 million and explained the procedure if the system was approved.

Once proper engineering tests have been conducted the system will link up with the St. Albert sewer system through an agreement between the city and the MD.

The 586 residents from the existing nine subdivisions (a 10th is now under construction) petitioned the MD to do the study and return with a cost estimate.

Projections show that 1,300 residents will be living in the area in the near future and residents felt that a more effective sewer system would be needed.

At present, sewage is disposed in open fields or pumped into septic tanks. If approved, Viscount would have one of only three sewer systems in the MD. The other two are in Villeneuve and Alcomdale. The Alcomdale system, however, is a co-operative not operated by the MD.

A petition is now being prepared by the residents to have further engineering studies proceed on the project. The petition must contain signatures of 67 percent of the residents before these can go ahead.

Grants must then be obtained from the provincial government and bylaws prepared to go before the Local Authorities Board for approval. Further meetings must also be planned with residents to determine what share they'll have to pay.

If no problems are encountered in the engineering studies and the paperwork can be completed this winter, construction will start next year.

Council raps Calgary Power

The MD Council gave Calgary Power a rap on their corporate knuckles last week for putting up electrical poles without first getting permission.

"I think this is disturbing," said Councillor Walter Van de Walle, after learning that the utilities company had installed the poles along a municipal road southeast of Redwater the day before they applied to the MD to do so. "You assume the municipality will rubber stamp these applications," he said.

Mr. Van de Walle added that it was "misleading" for Calgary Power to suggest that they have consent from adjacent landowners to plant guy lines on their property when the permission isn't in written form.

Calgary Power's representative at the meeting, Ken Owens, said his company had verbal consent from adjacent residents.

Mr. Owens was present to appeal an earlier refusal by council to allow the transfer of power lines from one side of the road to the other. The transfer was necessary, he said, because new lines had to be installed and the existing lines were in the way of a new installation unless power was shut off for five days.

Calgary Power wished to avoid any shutdown, he said, because Imperial Oil's nearby facility would lose 60,000 to 70,000 barrels of oil a day if the power to their pumps at their production field was turned off. Representatives from Imperial Oil at the meeting agreed.

Council agreed to allow Calgary Power to use the newly-installed power facilities until November 1, by which time they must've installed new facilities where the 'old' ones are now. The councillors reached their decision after learning that Imperial Oil was planning a seven-day shutdown in late September.

Councillor Walter Wolansky also objected to Calgary Power's methods of installing power lines and poles. Often, she said, equipment is put in without asking landowners where they'd like it placed.

"Calgary Power designs these lines without any respect for the farmer," Mr. Wolansky said. "I'd like to see someone put a peg in the middle of your lawn and cut your grass around it. I'd like to see you deal with that."

Press ban

felt that while he believed that everything should be open to the public at council, certain matters at the committee level should be kept in camera allowing for free and open discussion.

Mr. Van de Walle did say that he would be in favor of reconsideration of the motion if something could be done to rectify what he felt were "aspirations" cast on council members' abilities as a result of the editorial.

Ed Powell, assistant deputy minister of Municipal Affairs explained when contacted Monday that though the decision was an unusual one, council was perfectly within its right to make committee meetings in camera affairs.

"It's an undemocratic thing to do but if it's passed at council it is legal," he said. "Committee meetings are not legally sanctioned meetings under the Municipal Affairs Act and all decisions must be brought forth at council."

He added that council meetings must be open to the public though they can discuss some matters in camera if needed.

MD Council briefs

Air conditioning approved for graders

MD graders will be a little cooler next spring when air conditioning units are installed in the five existing units and the two additional ones now on order.

Grader operators asked council to consider installing the $1,610 units because heat coming from automatic transmissions and motors was just becoming too hot to handle.

SPEED ZONE SIGN POSTING

Four 50 kph speed signs and two No Exit signs will be posted in Hu Haven. In a letter to the Public Works Committee the community league requested these signs as well as two playground signs displaying 35 kph speeds, be installed.

The committee approved the speed signs and No Exit signs but referred the question of playground signs to MD council. The MD doesn't generally place playground signs in subdivisions but council recommended the committee inspect the site and determine if they're needed.

STREET LIGHTING

MD council has suggested that Public Works assess the need for street lighting in a one-half mile section south of the east-west Villeneuve Road.

Eight ratepayers along the road petitioned Public Works to install the lights, as well as providing additional services such as paved frontage road and garbage collection.

Council noted that the Villeneuve Road is slated for paving under the Hamlet Paving Program but stated garbage collection wasn't a service provided by the MD.

AN APPLE A DAY . . .

Kathy Milligan, 7, and Andrew Rivet, 4, of Bon Accord both pulled up big, fat, juicy apples from the apple bobbing tub during Threshing Days. Hundreds of people enjoyed the fine weather at the recreation grounds, and many took in the hilarious "donkey baseball" game.

SUBDIVISIONS TO BE OILED

Eight subdivisions have been slated for oiling this year. They're Crowsnest, Turf Side, Stage 1 of Rosal Acres, Hanson, Glory Hills, Fair Haven, west Fair Haven and Johnsons.

Money for the oiling will come from a $25,000 budget allotment set aside for oiling of roads in subdivisions.

CROWSNEST OFFICIALLY NAMED

Crowsnest Road is about to be officially named. Public Works recommended to council that administration apply to Alberta Transport to erect one sign pointing south off Highway 28 and another pointing north off Highway 37A.

Any other roads to be named are also to be submitted by councillors to the administration.

MERLIN MAINTAINS CONTRACT

Merlin Transport Ltd. has again received the contract to supply, haul and spray oil on MD roads. Price quotations from Gibson Petroleum Ltd. were submitted to Public Works but proved to be three cents higher per gallon on SC-70 and MC-Oils, than Merlin.

COUNCIL CONSIDERING GARBAGE LOADER

The unit could cost between $125,000 and $140,000 and one company has shown interest in supplying the unit. Representatives from Kochring and General Equipment Group of Calgary and its distributor, Vulcan Machinery and Equipment Ltd. from Edmonton, gave a presentation to the Public Works Committee August 10 and will submit more details on the equipment and price quotations to the administration.

GUARD RAILS FOR GRANDVIEW

Guard rails will be erected on high fill areas in Grandview Heights. Straw bales in the erosion area will remain in place until seeded ditches have solid growth.

MD $5 million is banked

The provincial government's Debt Reduction Grant has provided the MD with over $5 million in additional revenue this year.

The MD was entitled to $6,684,500, but once the debt of slightly over $1 million was removed, $5,412,480.83 was left over. It has been deposited into short term accounts at the Royal Bank in Morinville earning 11 1/4 per cent and will remain there for 30 and 60 day periods until council has had an opportunity to decide just how the money should be spent.

The provincial government announced the $1 billion grant plan earlier this year as part of their election platform. It allows for $500 per capita to all municipalities in Alberta this year.

According to Ed Powell, assistant deputy minister of Municipal Affairs, the only string attached to the money is that it first be used to pay off all debts. After that, he said, the municipality may do what it wishes with the money.

"The MD of Sturgeon is in a particularly good position compared to other municipalities because it had very little debt to clear up," he said. "It has a lot of money

His department has had talks with a number of municipalities providing suggestions on how they can best use the funds.

"Some have used the grant for improvements, roads or recreation, while others have invested it and are using the interest to keep the tax mill rate down."

While there is no time limit on the grant, he does suggest that the money be spent within five years.

"After all," he said, "you never know when an opportunity like this will come around again."

Boulais and Volmer School reunion

Just a short distance from the original school site, 40 former students and teachers of the Boulais School gathered at Tony Iseke's farm recently for a long-awaited reunion. Guests came from as far away as Ontario and Wisconsin and California.

The July 8th celebration marked 81 years since the original Boulais School began at Octave Bellerose's farm home, now owned by Robert Bellerose.

Mrs. Isola O'Shea, a graduate from Boulais, reports that after starting at the Bellerose farm home, the school children then spent time at the Maxwell and Bellisle farm homes. In 1900 the first school building was opened on Henry Iseke's (later Theodore Iseke) property.

Twenty-seven years later a second school was erected near Volmer. In 1938 that school, called the Volmer Catholic Public School, became part of the Sturgeon School Division through a subdivision approval.

Among the 40 guests at the reunion, two teachers were present: Mrs. Laura McDonald, who taught in 1921 and Mrs. Bertha Kennedy (formerly Brennand) who taught from 1930 to 1933.

Beginning in 1897, teachers at the schools included: Miss Lepage, Mr. Lapierre, Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Dalfond, Mr. Flynn, Miss Gorman, Miss Laura McDonald, Miss Allen, Miss Dewers, Miss Coffee, Miss Fitzgerald, Miss Hurd, Miss Mary Morrisroe, Miss Alice Somers, Mrs. Ella Cunningham, Miss Mary Alice Somers, Miss Bertha Brennand, Miss Mary E. Walsh, Miss Shirley Ncher, Miss Alma Steffes, Miss Belda Flynn, Miss Agnes Vos, Miss Rita Flynn, Miss Dora Boile, Miss Madeline King, Miss Marjorie N. Sartor, and Miss Jean J. Miciak.

Guests at the reunion included: Simone Anderson, Raoul Sevigny, Isola and Martin O'Shea, Anthony and Joanne Iseke, Henry and Irene Vollmer, Lois Verlinde, Albert and Yvonne LaFond, Leonard and Jeanne Hesse, Sister June Riopel (Simone Anderson's daughter), Frances and Joe Iseke, Urbanie Verlinde, Mary and John Kochling, John and Lenora Bokenfohr, Catherine and Leo Meyer, Alice Ross, Bertha Kennedy, Caroline Iseke, Clem Bokenfohr, Ann and Ken McIlmoyle, Robert Iseke, Peter and Florence Iseke, John Vollmer, Katherine Bokenfohr, Don MacDonald and family, Mrs. Laura MacDonald, Dave Norman MacDonald and Alois and Elizabeth Schafers.

The Little White School House by J. Charyk. An interesting history covering all aspects of the early struggle to found and maintain schools, when settlers were few and money almost non-existent. A tribute to dedicated parents, teachers, and children who wished to learn.

Half-Breed by M. Campbell. The story of a woman whose life collapsed after marriage, and who plumbed the depths of degradation and despair before making a recovery to help herself and her people. Her life is to be the subject of a film.

Men of the Saddle by A. Russell - Real cowboys, living and dead, and their work in Western Canada: with many beautiful camera

Northwest of Sixteen by J. MacGregor. Boyhood on a homestead 12 miles from Westlock. The struggles, hopes and sorrows of pioneers, some of whom won out and some who missed out.

Men for the Mountains by S. Marty. Fascinating story of a dedicated warden (and wife) whose conservationist ideals clashed with bureaucracy and big business, with the inevitable result.

A Harvest Yet To Reap by Rasmussen et al. A history of women on the prairies in the early days to the present: Women's Lib. and all that.

Wilderness Survival by B. Berglund. A complete guide to survival in the wilds, in plain language, with many good tips and well illustrated. Well worth reading if you are interested in back packing or other off-the-beaten track pursuits.

Morinville Seniors News

By Dorothy Daignault

The senior citizens of the Rendez-Vous Club have had a quiet summer. The club house was opened every Wednesday for the usual entertainments.

A few of our members went on the Nagel Tours to visit California and another group on the tour to Yellowstone Park. Mrs. Rolofs invited our members to join the senior citizens from Heritage Place to go on a day trip to visit the Alberta Government Museum. We always enjoy this outing even if some have been there before. There is always something different to see and we enjoy our lunch in the cafeteria.

Mrs. Rolofs invited our group to join the senior citizens of Heritage Place to play whist every third Wednesday of the month.

Last Wednesday the winners of whist were: Dorothy Daignault and Mr. Albert Simard, the consolation prizes were given to Sister Antoinette and Mr. Edward Rivard. We were served a delicious lunch and we thank Mrs. Rolofs and the ladies who helped.

At present Mr. and Mrs. Simard and their daughter are visiting his brother Mr. L'Abbe Simard. They have gone to visit the attractions of all tourists, Jasper, Banff and the majestic Rocky Mountains. We hope that they are enjoying their stay in our beautiful province.

For those who are new residents in Morinville, all senior citizens are welcomed to come and join the Rendez-Vous Club. For more information phone 939-4465 Dorothy Daignault or Kenny Detannancour at 939-4588.

The opening night for bridge players will be announced later in the Gazette.

'Gopher Tales' at Gibbons

By Margarette J. Atkinson
During the early 20's and 30's, the gophers were a great problem, not only for broken ankles if one stepped down one but also for cattle and horses especially.

Vegetable and crop damage was the worry, really, as there were so very many of them.

Finally, 'a bounty' was set and at one cent -- per gopher tail. By golly, even one cent meant a lot in those days, I can tell you!

Now one good place where a person could find lots of gophers was at our ball grounds, which is now Williams Park, north of the present sports grounds.

We kids made snares with strong binder twine: the cord which tied up grain sheaves during the early days so 'stooks' could be made. (So the grain dried nicely). Or we carried, pails-full of water to drown out our 'victims'.

I don't recall collecting any money, but I went along with my two brothers, Jim and Charlie, and Russell and John Bass. I sure caught some on my snares, but I would run around playing with them instead of destroying them. Of course, the boys would holler, "What did you do with your gophers?"

"Oh, they got away!" I'd answer.

I did help drown out a few but felt so sorry for their struggles, I would give them 'artificial respiration' by pressing water out of them, gently, with my fingers. Then quickly lay them out to dry in tall grass to recuperate in the warm sunshine. It was most difficult keeping them from crawling to their water-soaked home.

All of you new residents in Williams Park will by now realize you live on a place which was our sports and picnic grounds here in Gibbons.

It was a spot where canvas tents and stoves burning wood were set up to serve all those homemade pies, cakes and bread which, when filled with thick, juicy slices of hot roast beef, chicken or pork, made a person really feel well-fed. And there was always freshly-churned butter in those sandwiches as well.

And, genuine marching bands played all day.

This then was where we caught out gophers for their tails and the 'bounty'.

The Last Round-up (Gibbons Senior Citizens)

By Katie Brandle

Instead of our usual meeting on August 9 we travelled to Coronado, on the invitation of the U.C.W. Unit #1. After a bit of visiting we were entertained by Mrs. Margaret Williams of Edmonton, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Trott of Coronado.

She showed slides of her recent tour of the Islands of Barbados and Martinique and parts of Venezuela.

The pictures were very clear and a pleasure to watch. Mrs. Williams' commentary seemed to bring them to life, making them very interesting.

Cathie offered a vote of thanks, to which everyone responded heartily.

While the U.C.W. ladies

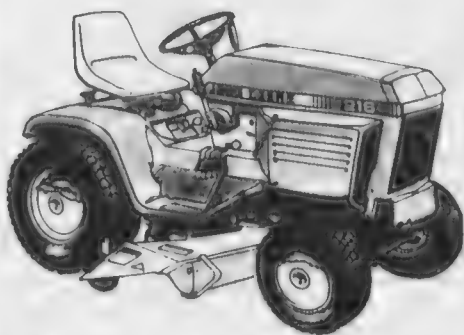

prepared lunch, a short business meeting was held. Roll call was answered by 35 members. We were glad so many came.

Emily gave a short prayer for Hazel Hancock who passed away July 12. We all joined in the Lord's Prayer. The minutes of the last regular meeting and committee meeting were read. Moved by Annie Knight and seconded by Cecile Strawnson, we thanked the ladies of Coronado for a very pleasant afternoon and bountiful lunch.

We then joined the rest for lunch and a friendly visit.

The Dew Drop Inn will be opened for games August 16. The St. Albert Seniors will be our guests at our next regular meeting tomorrow, August 23.

HOCKEY & SKATING REGISTRATION

Hockey and skating registration will be held on Wednesday, September 12 and Thursday, September 13 from 6 to 9 p.m. in the Bon Accord Arena. Fees are as follows:

Hockey - Micro-Mites (3-5 yrs.) $15 per child; Mini-mite to Midget $45 per child.

Skating - Learn to skate $10 per child; Beginner to Bronze $15 per child; Prelim. to junior $15 per child; Gold and Silver $20 per child; Intermediate and Senior $20 per child.

For all of the above a family community membership of $15 is required. The importance of registering your child on the above stated dates will allow adequate ice time to be scheduled for each group. Any minor hockey player who is not registered by September 13 will be assessed an additional $10 after that date. However, payment of fees to be paid in full will be accepted up to October 15.

As in other years, booth help is volunteer. This helps to keep the costs of hockey and skating registrations as low as possible as all proceeds from the booth go right back into the community for the benefit of you and your families. If you have no one involved in skating or hockey but would still like to help out in the booth, call one of the numbers listed below and volunteer. For additional information on hockey call Gail, 921-3646 or Janice 921-3500. For skating call Sandy, 921-3970. If you are interested in coaching or refereeing, please call Bill McDonald, 921-3500.

BISCHLER DAUGHTER

Congratulations to Jack and Barbara Bischler on the birth of their daughter

Charlene Margaret, 7 lbs. 13 ozs. on July 18 -- a sister for Brenda.

GEMS THANK YOU

A sincere thank you on behalf of the members of the Golden Gems club to Jacquie and Dave Everitt and the boys at Oakhill for a most enjoyable evening spent there on August 14. A most entertaining display of Romanian and Scottish dancing interspersed with bagpipe selections made the evening one to remember. Following the entertainment, raspberry shortcake and coffee were served.

AMBULANCE SOCIETY THANK YOU

The Ambulance Society wishes to thank the Ag. Society for the opportunity to put on another brunch. The board also wishes to thank all those who came out to enjoy the meal, Bill Carleton for donating the potatoes, Tillie Danake for donating lots of eggs, Bon Accord Meats and Groceries for their usual kindness in giving a discount on purchases and the hard-working kitchen crew, Hugh Allen, Kathy Hutton, Sharon Guignard, Janice McDonald, Dineen Ruland, Clarence Johnson, Nigel Mansfield, Don Tufford, Doreen Hewitt, Don and Pauline Symington and Elsie Johnson.

The president also wishes to commend all the board members who worked so hard to organize the brunch, dunk tank and apple bobbing, all events raising additional funds to keep the ambulance on the road to serve the citizens of the area.

LADIES THANK YOU

On behalf of the Ladies Community Club, a sincere thank you is extended to all those who ran the concession booth during the Threshing Days Festival. They had a very successful day.

OH . . . FOR THE GOOD OL' DAYS

Bon Accord's Threshing Days saw many turn out, and these oldtimers couldn't resist rehashing stories about harvesting with the old machines. This McCormick-Deering thresher sparked many good memories.

THRESHER DAMAGED

Help is needed. The thresher used for the Bon Accord Threshing Days accidentally had a piece of pipe fed through it. As a result, the concave and blower assembly was destroyed. Another machine for parts, or one in working condition as well as a few of the smaller belts would be greatly appreciated.

The thresher is a 22 inch McCormick-Deering but can use a blower from machines up to 28 inches. This thresher was purchased by Doug Lesyk to be used for the annual Threshing Days festivities and he is interested in obtaining other restorable pieces of farm equipment to broaden the display. If you can help, please phone Doug at 921-3996.

GEMS SALE

Golden Gems hosted another popular sale of pie and tea or coffee. Getting the teacups read proved a real drawing card. Many thanks to Margaret Atkinson for her services. They were much appreciated.

WATCH LOST

A ladies' watch was found in the arena. Owner may identify and claim from Penny Lesyk, 921-3996.

BASIC PAINTING COURSE FOR BON ACCORD

Ten lessons in basic painting will be available in Bon Accord this fall. The course will comprise 10 three hour classes commencing September 19 and ending November 21. The instructor is Guiseppe G. Albi, from the Department of Extension of the University of Alberta.

Residents of the area who have considered taking up this satisfying hobby are invited and encouraged to join this class as it may be some time before basic painting skills are taught in Bon Accord again. For more information please phone 921-3983, 921-3550 or 921-3621.

SPORTS PHILOSOPHY?

Parents and minor league coaches: Is there a need for a sports' philosophy for our children? Should all children get a fair share of playing time in the sport in which he or she is registered? The Sports Committee would appreciate your input. There will be a meeting Monday, August 27 at 8 p.m. in the Bon Accord Community Centre. Contact Tom Carleton, 921-2464 for more information.

NEW ARENA, GROUNDS MAN

The Bon Accord and District Community League are pleased to advise residents of the village and surrounding district that Mr. Eugene Rienks has been hired as arena superintendent - grounds maintenance man.

Eugene comes to us most recently from High Level, Alberta, where he was employed as a recreation director. He was educated in Ontario, having received diplomas in recreation leadership, general arts and science, arena management and a refrigeration operator class B certificate.

Our arena and grounds should be in very competent hands and we hope Eugene will enjoy working in our community.

News items are appreciated. Call 921-3813.

YOUNG FARMERS

Aaron Feamley, 4, Carmen Feamley, 2, and Danielle Monroe, 7, all of Bon Accord, couldn't help but hop on this tractor and pretend to roam the fields of Alberta. The tractor was on display with other old farm machinery during Bon Accord's Threshing Days on the weekend.

By Beryl Bailey Mrs. Ed. Brenneis celebrated her 75th birthday with a family party on July 29 in the Riviere Qui Barre Recreation Centre. About 80 were present for this happy occasion. These included the nine children (husbands and wives) of Mr. and Mrs. Brenneis, their children and the grandchildren ... also the sisters and brothers of Mr. and Mrs. Brenneis and their husbands and wives. A family dinner and social time followed the dinner. Mrs. Brenneis' birthday fell on August 2 but was celebrated the previous Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Mills with son, Gary, spent two weeks holidaying in B.C. travelling from home via Prince George, Kelowna and other points in that province.

The James Burrows and three children were among those holidaying in B.C. too, they visited relatives and friends on Vancouver Island in the Duncan area.

Miss Beth Campbell returned home from several weeks visit to Vancouver Island travelling with her sister and family. Mrs. E. Brisson of Morinville.

The Lloyd Congdons' with their three sons enjoyed a 10 day holiday in camper to the interior of B.C. during recent weeks.

Stanley Dionne while at a boy's camp at Lac St. Anne broke his leg while playing a game of tag ... a boy hit Stanley's leg with his head ... he was taken to the Misericordia Hospital in Edmonton but returned home Friday of last week. Friends have already been putting their names on his cast caused by the unusual accident.

Mrs. J. M. Bailey was much amused recently to see a mouse walking along a branch of raspberries about a foot off the ground. As it walked it nibbled at the berries. It wasn't quite as amusing the following morning as Mrs. Bailey put her hand into the box of cornflakes and to her surprise saw the cornflakes moving ... a mouse had gotten into the box and was nibbling away on the contents. Mrs. Bailey closed the box and rushed to the porch and let the mouse go outside not wanting her little dog to pursue it inside the house.

FINAL INSPECTION

Bill Harrison looks over one of the stand-by line cards at Bon Accord's new exchange. Each single party line card or circuit can carry up to four subscribers. There are 800 lines into the new exchange and the stand-by line will be used if any trouble should occur on any of the regular lines.

New phone system for Bon Accord

Residents of Bon Accord and surrounding area will notice a change in their telephone dial tone at noon Thursday, when Alberta Government Telephones (AGT) replaces older telephone switching equipment with a new solid state system.

The equipment located in AGT's new building on Bon Accord's main street, will mean calls will be completed more quickly and quietly.

One difference in addition to the dial tone that subscribers will notice right away is that long distance calls via the Direct Distance Dialing method will be put through automatically, rather than have the operator come on the line to provide assistance.

The system has not eliminated party lines, though it does have the capacity to do so.

The $911,800 project, which includes the cost of installing cable and the new building, uses solid state electronic components and a computer to process telephone calls, instead of thousands of moving parts formerly needed to do the same job.

Equipment was designed by Northern Telecom Canada Ltd. based in Bramalea, Ontario and Northern's technician John Clarke worked for five weeks with AGT installers Barry Sideroff and Bill Harrison to bring the system into operation.

The system is one of only four in Alberta, with the three others located in Wemby, Olds and Rocky Mountain House. Eventually all present telephone equipment now operated by AGT will be phased out in favor of the solid state components.

At present, the village's 850 telephones are served by the old switching system run from two small trailers located at the AGT yards just off Highway 28. With 800 installed telephone lines, the new system will have the capacity to meet Bon Accord's telephone service demands for the next seven years. AGT expects an annual growth in service demands of about eight per cent or approximately 55 telephone lines a year.

The system is designed to be relatively maintenance free with more reliable switching. The exchange itself will be left unattended and any trouble on the lines can be corrected from AGT's main office in Edmonton by putting the caller on a stand-by line. Damaged circuits will then be replaced through regular maintenance checks.

LIZ McLEOD

Horticultural winners revealed

By Liz McLeod

The weather co-operated famously for Calahoo Women's Institute's 8th annual Flower and Vegetable show which was held in the church basement on Sunday, August 12 this year.

Although it became evident that Sunday wasn't a good day to hold this show, there was enthusiasm among the few who did enter and who came to view the displays. The children's displays were very creative, attractive and good.

Todd and Martin Kaup,

Debbie and Laura Dalheim, and Vince and Leah Augustin, were the happy youngsters entering and winning prizes in the 6 to 16 year old categories. There were no pre-school entries this year.

A new feature added to this show was a prize donated by Mary Dalheim and Liz McLeod for the best overall entry in the show, and this was won by Mrs. Wm. Elsie Hook of Onoway with her vegetable display in the form of a face.

Other prizes were for: Best Blooming Houseplant - Theda Verbeek; Best Foliage Houseplant - Theda Verbeek; Best Coffee Table Arrangement - Liz McLeod; Best Corsage - Liz McLeod; Best Vegetable Arrangement - Elsie Hook; Best Floral Arrangement - Laura Campbell.

The runner-up to the grand aggregate was Mrs. J. Theda Verbeek with 40 points, and then a very surprised Mrs. Pete McLeod, was the recipient of both the floral and vegetable aggregate prizes, plus the Calahoo W.I. Trophy and the prized Annie Norris Grand Aggregate Trophy, with 64 points overall.

Working all through the night, Mrs. McLeod was able to enter 28 classes, while receiving ribbons for 27 of them.

The door prize was won by Roy and Nancy Grant of Edson, Alberta. Nancy is Myles Kerr's niece and they were visiting at Kerr Brothers, so also attended this show.

Many thanks go to each and everyone who helped make this show a success. Also thanks to the judge, Mr. Dan Dale from Stony Plain and to the entrants for their interest in entering.

LATE SUMMER ARRIVES

It would seem that our summer has arrived, and isn't it grand. The people in 346 must really appreciate this ripening weather. They have the greatest vegetable garden, we've seen for a long time.

Someone said that in comparison our Park is much nicer than others. It must be that the regulations set down by the management are serving the purpose. We know that two garbage pickup days each week keep it clean.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

We dropped in on Helen

Shand at the Rec. Hall. Carl, Kevin and Jessie gave us a beautiful rendition of "Jesus Loves Me."

We saw Dwayne and Tammy there too. They are all enjoying Bible school. Best wishes to Helen who is getting married in September.

VISITOR FROM SASKATCHEWAN

Mrs. Korpatnisky from Foam Lake has been visiting her daughter and family, Glen and Darlene Gogal. Bet the kids loved having grandma there.

OPERATION IDENTIFICATION

At present, there is a team of five good looking gals from the Fort RCMP detachment who are performing this identification duty in the Park.

Debbie Ream tells us they will be here until August 28. This is a free service and takes about half an hour. What an easy way to discourage theft.

To make an appointment for the girls to call, just phone Debbie at 998-3737.

Debbie tells us that this marking equipment is available to the public free of

SWIMMING POOL

LIBRARY

Numerous picture books for pre-school children have arrived at the library. These books are also good for those children learning to read. New arrivals for the adults are "Peter Lougheed" by Allan Hustak and "You and the Law" put out by the Reader's Digest. A popular book with the young people,

"The Complete Unabridged Trivial Encyclopedia" is also available.

SLIDE PRESENTATION

A slide presentation of Holy Land pictures will be held on Friday, August 24 at 8 p.m. at the Evangelical Church in Redwater. The Holy Land pictures will be shown by J. P. Loewen of Grande Prairie.

RODEO

The rodeo was attended by approximately 600 people both on Saturday and Sunday. Rodeo queen was Tara Robinson sponsored by the Legion. Tara was the recipient of a beige stetson and sash donated by the Ag. Society. Also J-Lynns western wear donated a $40 gift certificate to Tara. Tara also received a trophy.

The runner-up was Cindy Hicks sponsored by the Ag.

Society, the second runner-up was Lhea Shilton sponsored by the Triple R Riding Club, and the third runner-up was Cathy Wolanski sponsored by the Kinsmen.

The titles were won by ticket sales alone. The runners-up received 10 percent of the ticket sales and a trophy.

An afternoon pit barbecue of beef fed about 125 people. A cabaret was held Saturday night with the Satellites from Clyde supplying the band music.

KRAZEE DAZE

Krazee Daze held on the weekend and sponsored by the Redwater Agricultural Society can be deemed a success this year. A good turnout enjoyed the free pancake breakfast in the morning. This was followed by a parade at 11 a.m.

A CHEAP TOW JOB

Lenny Lawes of St. Paul and Richard Gottenbos of St. Brides paired up for the team roping event at the Redwater Krazee Daze Rodeo. The pair snagged this cow, and Lawes had to pull the rope tight, creating this humorous scene.

Marty O'Kell

THE WORLD OF PROFESSIONAL SPORT in the Edmonton area has been booming lately.

The Edmonton Oilers came through with some outstanding hockey entertainment, and "nearly" clinched the last ever Avco Cup. The Edmonton Eskimos are going strong, as usual, and the Edmonton Drillers have recently completed their first year in the North American Soccer League (even though the team began as the Connecticut Bi-Centennials, later moving to Oakland).

Now that the dust has cleared from Commonwealth Stadium, let's take a look at what the future holds in store for the Drillers. (Next week I'll do the same for the Oilers).

The biggest addition to the Drillers line-up is the theft of Graham Leggat from Carling O'Keefe. Leggat is, without a doubt, a top notch man. He's well versed in the proceedings of a pro soccer club, both European and Canadian, having coached the Toronto Metros in its inaugural year, and the Aston Villa club in England.

There's only one way to go with a man like Leggat... and that's up.

Looking to the players, standout defenders Dwight Lodgeweges and Joe Raduka have signed three year contracts, while midfielder and forward Gudgeir Leifsson has also done the same.

Lorenze Hilkes, the spark plug of the Edmonton offence, has one more year to go in his contract, but the Drillers are trying to sign him to a longer pact.

Jan Endeman, the goalkeeper on loan from the Go Ahead Eagles in Holland, is currently playing with the Eagles at the moment. Proceedings are currently underway to sign the young netminder. Earlier, the Eagles had emphatically refused to sell Endeman to Edmonton, but the former has recently signed a top free agent keeper, shedding a little bit of a different light on the situation.

Andy Atuegbu, the colorful and exciting midfielder, came to Edmonton from Oakland with a four year contract. He has two years remaining.

Hans Kraay Jr. is currently playing for Excelsior of the Dutch Honor League, but it's reported from the Drillers office that he's close to signing a one year deal, and possibly three years.

Looking to the Canadians that will be around for next year, Paul Roe and Drew Ferguson are good bets to return. Bruce Twamley will come to camp next spring to try and earn a spot. If he does, he'll sign a contract. Gord Manzini's position is "shaky" according to one source within the Drillers organization.

All the other players from last year are question marks. The job of determining who else will come here lies with the new coach, who that will be is another good question.

The new coach will be looking at game films made from the CFRN-TV tapes of the televised games, and he will decide the future of some of the players.

However, it's a good bet that Jan Goosens will be asked to return, along with Alex Schoenmaker.

Henning Jensen is getting a little old, and while he played well for the Drillers (and San Jose, he was acquired during mid-season), he wasn't spectacular. He may not be asked to come back.

I'm quite sure that Peter Arnautoff, an American and the back-up goalkeeper, won't be asked back. Former coach Hans Kraay Sr. didn't play Arnautoff once during his tenure, and I'm sure he had a good reason. As far as I'm concerned, the one game he did play while Joe Petrone was the interim coach proved what Kraay had suspected. Arnautoff wasn't good enough for the NASL, despite being a top draft choice.

Other players not mentioned so far include Ron Klinsenberg, who should be asked back to training camp, Bogdan Turudija, who shouldn't be asked back; Ron Ouwehand, currently playing alongside Kraay Jr. with Excelsior in Holland but shouldn't be asked to return; Derek Evans, a young player from San Jose State who should be kept to play in the reserve team; Lee Atack, a defender who may be able to keep a spot on the 1980 team; and John Anton, who should be asked back because his youth and speed may turn out to be a huge asset in the future. Anton, also known as "Super Sub," is an exciting player to watch and can serve as a "spark plug," much in the same manner Hilkes does.

The reserve team, under the watchful eye of Joe Petrone, may possibly play in the Alberta Major Soccer League. The team should have several young Albertans as well as a few Driller youngsters playing, all waiting to get called up to the parent squad.

All in all, the 1980 version of the Drillers looks promising, as they'll have to sign a few more "quality" players, and you can bet they'll be "quality."

Webb Expos capture provincial crown

St. Albert's Webb Hardware Expos won the Mosquito A Division Provincial baseball championship over the weekend in Pincher Creek, downing Peace River in the final after trailing by four runs.

The Expos were down 8-4 to Peace River in the bottom of the sixth, but narrowed the gap to 8-7 to set up a classic baseball situation. With two gone and runners at second and third, a count of three balls and two strikes, Jerry Chaney belted a solid double to the fence, bringing home the tying and winning runs, and also giving the Expos the provincial title.

To get to the final, the Webb gang outscored the host Pincher Creek team 16-10 on Friday evening. Early Saturday morning, they handed Red Deer a 12-2 thumping, but lost an afternoon encounter with Peace River by a 4-2 score.

As a result of this loss, the Expos had to work their way back up through the "B" side of the tourney. This meant they had to win all remaining games on Sunday in their quest for the championship.

On Sunday, the Expos gained their birth in the finals by exploding for a huge amount of runs, and capping the Pincher Creek crew 32-4. That match paved the way for the battle with the up till then, undefeated Peace River club.

The Expos defeated the Peace 9-8, which added another game to the series, as both teams at that point had identical records. The final saw the Webb Hardware Expos clip Peace River, making them the first St. Albert baseball team to win a provincial title.

Last year, the Expos were in Peace River in the provincials, but lost a close 3-2 squeaker to Pincher Creek in the finals, in a game that went into two extra innings.

The whole team played a good, solid weekend of baseball, and truly deserve the crown.

The team consists of Jerry Chaney, Curt Goeson, Mark Johnston, Jason Tingley, Brad Edgett, Russell Webb, Kevin Welch, Dale Jones, David Ross, Matt Peskewis, Keith Fluett, plus two zone

SPORTS Gazette

Fastball tournament this weekend in St. Albert

The first annual St. Albert Kinsmen Rodeo Rainmaker's Invitational Men's fastball tournament will be played this weekend in St. Albert on the new Meadowview Diamonds, just west of the railway trestle.

The 16-team tournament was originally scheduled for Rodeo weekend but the weatherman failed to cooperate and it had to be rescheduled.

All 16 teams in the double knockout tournament have now been confirmed and there certainly will be no lack of talent on the majority of the clubs.

Six of the teams will be from the eight team Greater St. Albert Men's Fastball League, which has provided St. Albert fans with exciting action throughout the season.

Action starts at 10 a.m. Saturday morning on both diamonds with Trophy Bank Colt 45's meeting Lee's Restaurant, while the St. Albert A's take on Ponoka Royals.

The noon draw has Trail

Leisure Ottocrats playing Stony Plain Playboys while on the other diamond Grouard will meet Webb Tours.

At 2 p.m. the St. Albert Territorial Juniors will be up against the powerful Spruce Grove KC's while Westlock Raiders will meet Calahoo Chiefs.

The final draw will start at 4 p.m. with Linaria Outlaws going against LBH Builders and St. Albert Blue Jays taking on Fultonvale.

Sunday's games will start at 9 a.m. with the finals expected to start about 6 p.m.

Admission of $1.50 will be charged for the whole day which will be a great bargain considering the action that will be displayed.

Concession stands will be set up and run by the Greater St. Albert Men's Fastball League with all proceeds going towards operation of the league and the betterment of the Meadowview facilities, which are already the talk of all teams seeing or playing on them.

Blues go to nationals

St. Albert's junior lacrosse team, the St. Albert Blues (formerly the North Glenora Blues) will be heading east to Sarnia, Ontario to play in the Founder's Cup Championship for Junior B Lacrosse, the national championship.

The Blues play their first game on August 27 against Quebec. The winner of the first round will play in the "A" side, with the losers falling to the "B" side. Each side will then play a round robin format.

Blues coach Peter Sonnen rates the team's chance, saying, "In the 'A' side we should be third, but if we lose the first game and go into the 'B' side we should win it."

The tourney runs from August 27 to September 2.

NUREYEV OF THE GRIDIRON

Second round playoff action got underway Monday night in the Greater St. Albert Men's Fastball Association and if the series continues as it started, fastball fans in St. Albert will be in for a tremendous treat.

Both games went into extra innings with the St. Albert Territorial Juniors defeating St. Albert Nu-West A's 3-2 in nine innings, while the Leisure Trail Ottocrats needed eight innings to upset pennant winning LBH Builders 6-5.

Both games featured some excellent fielding plays, fine pitching and timely hitting.

Both could actually be classed as upsets as the Builders went through the 21 game schedule with only three losses while the Nu-West A's had the experience over the Juniors.

A's opened the scoring with a run in the third inning on a bases-loaded walk to Blair Iseke, scoring Rick Dalyn from third base.

Juniors came back in the fourth inning with Travis Parayko leading off with a walk, moved to second on a passed ball and then came home on a single to centre field by Mike Mitchell.

Both clubs had chances each inning as they left stranded runners in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings.

In the top of the seventh the A's had two out before Steve Lister had a "Texas-league" single into shallow centre, but could not advance him any further as Gary Mix grounded out to third to end the inning.

Juniors then went to bat in what would have been the final inning as it was getting dark. Alackson led off by grounding out to the pitcher for the first out, but Wayne White singled into left field and then advanced to second on a passed ball.

Doug Langridge then smashed a line shot into right centre to score White from second base with the winning run.

Blaine Galbraith went all the way on the mound for the win allowing seven hits, three walks and struck out seven.

Jack Hartley went seven and a half innings for the A's, giving up seven hits, walking three and getting six by the strike-out route.

Veteran Dick Bird relieved Hartley in the eighth with runners on second and third before getting the next three in order. Bird, however, ended up the losing pitcher allowing a pair of hits in the ninth.

BLAINE GALBRAITH

In the other game Ottocrats scored three runs in the first inning on walks to Keith Tilden and Rod Gauf, a sacrifice by Dale Lawson and then three base hits in a row. Al Edwards' double brought in the first two runs while Rod Proudfoot scored the third on a single.

Proudfoot scored the fourth Ottocrat run in the top of the fourth as he reached first on an infield error, advanced to third on a LBH error and scored on Danny Woytiuk's deep fly to centre field.

Builders got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the fourth with lead off batter Dave Lozinski reaching first with a walk and scoring on a triple by John Johnson.

Ottocrats went ahead 5-1 in the top of the fifth on a single by Dale Lawson and came home on a single by Al Edwards.

LBH came up with a pair of runs in the fifth and sixth innings to tie the game with John Prusak and Gary Muscroft scoring in the fifth after hitting doubles and singles respectively.

Bill Russell and John Johnson opened the sixth with singles and both scored on a double by Muscroft to tie the game at five runs each.

The seventh inning was scoreless although the Builders lead off batter Mitch Scott reached first base on a Ottocrat infield error, but could not advance as the next three Builders went down in order.

Builders went down in order in the eighth to end the ball game.

Danny Woytiuk started on the mound for the Ottocrats and had eight strike outs before being relieved.

Gene Lytwyn (the man with the crazy ball), went the distance for the Builders, allowing six hits, striking out a pair and walking only three.

The second game for both series goes tonight at Meadowview and it will be a "do or die" situation for both the A's and Builders. If a third game is necessary it will be played Thursday night with the first in the best of five final slated for Monday of next week.

Weatherman kind to Calahoo Sports Association

their annual fastball tournament and beef barbecue.

The girl's bantam team, sponsored by Dillingham Corporation also did their sports community team proud by winning the ladies eight-team tournament which was worth $200 in prize money.

The girl's opened up the double knockout tournament with a close 11-10 win over the Stingers with Sheila Patrick scoring the winning run in the last inning following a single by Marnie Horn.

Their second game was against the tough Lac La Biche team but they came on in fine style to win rather easily by a 10-5 score. The win put them into the "A" final against Boston Pizza who had a much older and experienced team, but it didn't seem to matter that much as the Calahoo girls won by a 4-0 shut-out.

Calahoo picked up two runs in each of the first two innings and held the Boston club off the scoresheet.

Shelley Berube was on the mound for all three wins and was the outstanding pitcher in the tournament.

The Calahoo Erins also picked up some prize money as they lost the final game of the "B" event to Nelson Lumber by a 7-5 score.

The beef barbecue with all the trimmings was well attended and nobody went home hungry.

Calahoo Chiefs finished out of the money as they lost a pair of squeakers falling 3-2 to the St. Albert Territorial Juniors in their first game and then losing a heart-breaker in 20 innings to Armada Construction.

All proceeds of the fun-filled weekend go towards the excellent sports program throughout the community.

AN IMPENDING DOUBLE PLAY

This Cannesco Celtic second baseman hurls the ball to the first baseman for a double play while the base runner, from the Whitecourt Braves, prepares to step on the bag. This play in the opening game in Calahoo on the weekend caused a small controversy, as some insisted the Cannesco player didn't tag the bag before he threw the ball. It didn't matter anyway, as Whitecourt thrashed the Edmonton team. The winners of the men's fastball tourney was Spruce Grove KC's, while the Calahoo Dillingham crew won the bantam girls event.

Four locals named to Alberta Selects

Four St. Albert youths have been named to the 16 member Alberta Under 16 Selects soccer team.

The four, Norman Odinga, Rick Gray, Paul Kelly and Terry Nipp, will travel with the team to the Western Canada Championships in Vancouver for action September 7, 8 and 9.

The team was cut to 16 players from the 28 who originally tried out, with six of the 16 from northern Alberta, six from southern Alberta, and the four from St. Albert.

Odinga, Gray, Kelly and Nipp all play for the Victoria midget team, coached by Herman Kochan. Kochan is also the coach of the Alberta Selects, while Calgary Fred Kern is acting as manager. Kern is organizing workouts for the southern players in Calgary, while Kochan is looking after the northern kids.

In the past, the British Columbia team has won every championship except for last year, when Alberta managed to clinch the title.

The Alberta team is confident they can return the trophy again to Alberta soil.

NCABL All-Stars sweep memorial tournament

Billed as one of the more prestigious tournaments in the North Central Alberta area, the Harvey J. Doherty Memorial Tournament was almost plagued with the Lacombe disease. Of the seven baseball games played in Westlock on August 11 and 12, four were called on the run rule before nine innings had been played. There were highlights, of course, if individual performances and sound play execution were considered. But the over-riding fact remains that the NCABL All-Stars demonstrated considerable talent in defeating their opposition on Saturday and Sunday. The All-Stars did not seem to be daunted by the fact that six of the first and second team picks were not suited up.

The long awaited match-up between the NCABL and the strong St. Albert Saints of the Sunburst Baseball League proved to be one of the more entertaining contests as the All-Stars handed the Saints a 5 to 1 defeat. Barry Kuzminski threw a strong game for the NCABL going the distance on the mound. The losing pitcher was Jeff Craig. The turning point in that game came in the sixth when Jim McDonald homered driving in three runs for the All-Stars. McDonald went on to win the MVP award for the tournament.

The Grande Prairie Eskimos must have spent themselves out defeating the loaded Two Hills Eagles on Saturday because nothing they had left on Sunday could silence the powerful All-Star bats. The NCABL easily defeated the Eskimos 9-0 with Gary Huculak going the distance for the All-Stars and being credited with the win. Doug McKay took the loss and was replaced by Jim Goldsack who finished the game.

It was perhaps the final game of the tournament which drew the most from the players and which excited the fans in the process. It was a question of how well the Westlock Red Lions would fare with four all-star picks of their own in their roster and hard hitting Harold Johnson of the Tigers added to their ranks. That question was soon answered as the All-Stars exploded early for seven runs after a first inning miscue by the All-Stars which resulted in a Red Lion run. The game tightened, however, as the Red Lions contented themselves with chipping away at the All-Star lead. Strong hitting on the part of the All-Stars prevailed as three more runs were scored in the fifth and two were added in the ninth. The final score was 12-7 as Mike Gonas recorded the win with John Osborne relieving for the final one, and a third innings. For the All-Stars, it was a warming victory after having dropped an 11-5 decision to the Edmonton Tigers in Renfrew earlier in the week.

Alberta Bursary Skaters' seminar

Each year Alberta's top figure skaters are chosen to undergo intensive training in a special instructional seminar. This year's Alberta Bursary Skaters' Seminar will be held at Edmonton's Royal Glenora Club August 19 to September 1 and will be home to 32 skaters for 11 days of hard work, concentration, bumps, bruises and inspiration. Concentrated training is provided in off-ice conditioning and ballet classes as well as in on-ice coaching in figures, freestyle and programming.

High in motivational value the seminar features team coaching by a selected group of skating professionals. The 1979 team includes Jan Ullmark, Sweden; Maureen Owen, Toronto; Cynthia Trudeau, Vancouver; Michael Jiranek, Calgary; Frank Nowosad, Victoria and Margaret Hyland, California.

Skaters invited to attend the seminar represent the cream of the crop in Alberta skating, excluding only those selected for the National Singles Seminar. Skaters are singled out on the basis of potential, competitive record, work habits and attitude, and skating level achieved. This year's contingent includes Joelle Tustin of St. Albert.

Eight Alberta skaters have been selected for the National Singles Seminar with Brian Pockar of Calgary, Canadian Senior Men's champion going along in a demonstration capacity. Opening August 22 in London, Ontario, the national training session gathers together the most promising competitors from across Canada. The strong male skaters of the Edmonton area are represented on the roster by Troy Ruptash, Michael Tokaryk, and Ian Edwards. Natalie who was invited to the seminar, will instead make her debut into international competition at St. Gervais in France.

Reimer of Lethbridge will be joined by Cathie McFarlane, Kerry Smith and Shelley Fleming of Calgary. Kathryn Osterberg, also of Calgary,

Redford off to Rocky Mountain rally

Local rally driver Brent Redford and navigator Steve Farrell will be making their way down south to Calgary for the Rocky Mountain Rally, which begins at 10 a.m. Saturday in the southern city.

The rally, the 10th event in the Molson's Rally Championship of Canada and the fourth event in the Hella Challenge for the Prairie Region Performance Rally Championship, will take place mostly in the Porcupine Hills region of southwest Alberta.

Redford couldn't make it as planned to the most recent rally in the circuit, held in Kamloops last weekend, but expects to do well in the Rocky Mountain Rally.

He is also gearing up for Canada's most prestigious rally event, the pro Criterium du Quebec near Montreal, which is slated for September 13 - 16.

WMFL playoffs this weekend

Wetaskiwin Car Capitals defeated the Regina Molson's 6-3 and 6-1 Monday night in Regina to take the best of seven semi final series four games to three and the right to meet the Camrose Merchants in the Western Major Fastball League finals.

The best of seven series has not been finalized as to when it will start but in all likelihood it will begin Saturday and Sunday with the opener played in Camrose.

The series will switch back and forth between the two centres until a champion has been decided.

Camrose went down in two straight games in the world softball tournament held in Bakersfield on the weekend.

A SAFE RETURN

Eric Sadee of St. Albert returns a ball from Carl Tokarek of Rio Terrace (in Edmonton) during the Coca Cola sponsored junior tennis tournament at Mission Courts on Monday. Eric won this match in the under 18 singles by a 6-1 score. The results weren't ready at deadline time, so watch in next week's edition for top players and standings.

Guite retires from Oilers

Edmonton Oilers of the National Hockey League last week announced the addition of three players to their training-camp roster and general manager Larry Gordon said veteran forward Pierre Guite has retired voluntarily.

Glen Sather, the Oilers' coach and hockey operations director, said junior prospect

Gord Stafford of Billings Bighorns, forward Dean Magee and defenceman Mike Boyd will be on hand for the Sept. 11 opening of Edmonton's first NHL camp rookie and conditioning camp.

He anticipated bringing 48 players to camp, with several likely to remain for the start of the main camp Sept. 18.

"I'm really happy about Stafford," said Sather. "He was the top Billings scorer last year and if we want to sign him and return him to Billings for another year of seasoning, we can do that."

In recent years, several NHL teams have drafted players in advance of their graduation from junior hockey and have allowed the players to complete their junior eligibility. An outstanding example is Bryan Trottier of New York Islanders, who was signed while still playing with Lethbridge Broncos of the Western Hockey League.

Last year, Trottier was the top scorer and most valuable player in the NHL.

"After the six rounds of the draft last week, every NHL team started scrambling around for good players who hadn't been selected," Sather said. "We think the Oilers got one of the best ones available and we're still trying to get others, because the future of a young team like the Oilers is only as good as our young players."

Stafford scored 37 goals and 66 assists in 72 games for Billings last season. The 165-pound centre, who stands five-foot-10 and shoots left, also served 77 penalty minutes. A year previously, he had 11 goals, 22 assists and 54 penalty minutes in 59 games.

Magee, like Stafford a Banff native, played four good seasons with Colorado University of the Western Collegiate Hockey Association. He played briefly with Indianapolis Racers of the World Hockey Association last year and joined Grand Rapids of the International Hockey League after the Racers folded.

In 68 games, the 24 year old Magee scored 35 goals and 37 assists. He also picked up 148 penalty minutes. In the playoffs, the 195 pound left wingers scored 15 goals and 11 assists for 26 points, second-best on the Owls roster, in 21 games.

Boyd is a 21 year old defender from Toronto who weighs 205 pounds and stands six-foot-one. He was rescued from Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League by an agent after playing only 28 games due to injury. He compiled six assists and 10 penalty minutes.

Sather said he was most impressed with Boyd's size and promise. "Besides, he's a right-handed defenceman and you can never get enough of those."

Guite, a left-handed shot, played briefly with Dallas Black Hawks of the Central Hockey League last season after injuries prevented him reaching his peak with the Oilers. The 27 year old right winger scored one goal for Edmonton before going to the minors in hopes his back would recover.

When the injury did not clear up during the summer, Guite notified Gordon he was prepared to retire. Settlement was reached after hours of negotiations in Gordon's Oilers office.

Sailfish to provincials

Forty-two Sailfish swimmers will be going for the gold in Calgary at the Provincial championships on August 25 and 26. When times are just 10ths of seconds apart, and existing records are being nudged, the swimming will be hard, fast and very competitive.

The Zone B regional swim-offs leading up to the provincials splashed off at the Fountain Park Pool last Friday night. Then, the finals of the distance events heralded the start of eliminations which continued through to Sunday afternoon.

The St. Albert swimmers who qualified in the top two standings for distance are: Gerta Grieve - 2nd - Women's 800m. free; Rod Wiltshire - 2nd - Men's Open 400m. free; Diane Pass - 1st - Women's Open 400m. free;

Carolyn Wilhelm - 2nd - Women's Open 200m. free. Saturday started the process of elimination in individual events. Preliminary heats in each event reduced the individual entries down to the fastest eight swimmers in each age group. These eight met again on Sunday morning to further reduce the count to the top two swimmers.

Following the Sunday finals and relays, individual awards were also picked up by St. Albert swimmers in the following categories: Boys 8 and Under - Corev

Wilson, Boys 9 and 10 - Ewen; Girls 9 and 10 - Susan Preece; Girls 11 and 12 - Tiffany Watson; Girls 13 and 14 - Susan Otto; Girls 15 and 16 - Carolyn Wilhelm.

St. Albert also won the total point club award.

Motorcycle meeting

The newly formed St. Albert Motorcycle Club will be holding a general meeting on Thursday, August 23 to organize and elect a new executive. The meeting starts at 7 p.m. in the Lacombe Clubhouse - Kinsmen Community Centre (downstairs) on Larose Drive.

The club, recently incorporated under the Societies Act, will elect an executive and discuss immediate objectives.

Attendance by members and prospective members is crucial to the early development of the club, as it may affect the possible acquisition of a location for a future facility.

Hayter re-appointed to O'Keefe Award Board

The award is the highest individual award in amateur baseball in the province and is presented annually for significant contributions to the sport.

Other trustees returned to the Board for a two year term are Dennis Lindstrand of Camrose; John Lapinski, Les Long and John Ducey of Edmonton.

New appointees are Ron Baird of Drayton Valley and Ron Watamaniuk of St. Albert.

Last year's recipient of the award was Joe Lebeuf of Wanham. Previous winners include Doris Taylor, Sherwood Park; Harvey Doherty, Westlock; Larry Smith, Lethbridge; Paul Hargas, Warburg; David Plotsky, Sherwood Park, and George Behm and Ron Hayter, both of Edmonton.

Holden's heroics lead Rummies to win

"And it's Holden to Holden for another TD, the announcer screamed as the Rummies picked up one of eight TDs enroute to a 52-34 'cleaning' of the Dirty Dozen in last week's Sturgeon Men's Flag Football action.

The game was billed as a battle of the giants. Last year's champs were out to prove that winning it all was no fluke. The Dozen were going to show them why THEY should have won it last year. Even the referees trembled as they looked over the Dozen's (Hole)some front two, wondering if they'd make it off the field alive should one of the brothers be called for a penalty.

Rummies struck first before the Dozen appeared ready to play. Within a few plays the passing of quarterback Geoff Holden had the Rummies 'uncomfortably' ahead by two. Uncomfortably because the Dozen's defensive line appeared to be growing upset. They charged through the Rummies' line like it was made of styrofoam but each time the nimble Holden managed to scramble just out of their reach and complete another long pass.

And each time the Dozen took over the Rummies linebackers threw a blanket over the receivers. By half-time it looked as if the Rummies had it in the bag.

Not so. During rest break the Dozen yanked their quarterback. He couldn't see over the Hole brothers playing the line. They brought in a sleeper QB. (At least he seems asleep whenever you run into him). Terry MacPherson would be calling the signals as the Dozen prepared for a comeback.

And comeback they did. MacPherson connected with Ian Langridge to open the second half with a major.

Holden duplicated the feat moments later when the Rummies took over but, the Dozen were coming on. They narrowed the gap to a TD. Had they found a weakness in the Rummies' secondary? For the rest of our sakes let's hope so. Unfortunately for the Dozen it soon disappeared.

Holden connected two more times before the final gun to sink any hopes the Dozen had of knocking off the second place team.

Second place?

That's right. Second. RMC Sportsmen hold down the top spot on the strength of lopsided victories over two questionable (to say the least) opponents. Last week it was the Bonnevill Casuals and this week the Standard Generals fell victims to the passing of Darling Dan Darling.

Darling hit for another six TDs to run his league leading total to an even dozen. (Holden's second with 10). Generals managed half the Sportsmens' 38 points and wind up going into the third week of the schedule batting .500. The Generals have, however, amassed 51 points so don't go putting them in the ranks of the Casuals and the Chargers yet. It could cost you a game.

Phantoms could prove to be the cinderella team this year. Last week these gridiron ghosts narrowly missed upsetting the Rummies (does anyone know where they got that name?) when they had three TDs called back. The final score in that one was 13-12. Receiver Allan Stephen with five majors against the Chargers is leading the league with 43 points, 12 up on Roger Nickolson of the Sportsmen. Quarterback Ed Shaback is also in the thick of the race with nine TDs to his credit. This week the Phantoms ran the juice out of the Chargers shorting their circuit 58-6.

Bet you can hardly wait for the Casuals to meet the Chargers. There shouldn't be any points awarded for a 0-0 standoff.

We just told you about the Chargers this week. Here's what befell the hapless Casuals (also known by their maiden name the "Pom Pom Girls"). You remember the Blubber Butts of last season? Casuals, known as the Converts in '78, managed one of their few victories against that league president-managed team. Masquerading as the Mayfair Plumbing Bombers the "Butts" weren't about to let it happen again. After all, they had a reputation to start building. A loss to the Casuals was not the direction to head off in.

Casuals continued to be plagued by quarterbacking problems. Seems no one on the team can throw a football. (We'll never know if their receivers can catch if it keeps up).

At any rate, to make it short and sweet, Bombers 35 - Casuals 6. Last season's scoring champ Rob (Little Guts) Crossley pulled down three touchdown passes from his inlaws to pull into third in the scoring race.

Sabres were odd (no slight intended) team out last week in the nine team league.

Games this week will see the Casuals go three and oh, when they meet the Dirty

Dozen, Chargers seek their first win against the Generals, the Rummies pull the fuse in the Bombers, and the Phantoms welcome the Sabres to a real game.

IN A 'HOLE' LOTTA TROUBLE

Rummies' QB Geoff Holden was under pressure all game by the relentless pursuit of the Dirty Dozen defensive front led here by ex-Golden Bear and Edmonton Eskimo draft Jim Hole. He got the ball away in time on this play to brother Martin (waiting just beyond Dozen defensive back Scott Ballantyne).

wins

North American Soccer title

Toronto's Martin Grove club defeated Montreal's Notre Dame De Pompeii 1-0 to win the Canadian Under 16 Soccer Championships, then went on to win the North American crown by virtue of a 3-0 win over Club America of Dallas.

The Canadian consolation final saw Grandview Legion of Vancouver defeat the Calgary Blizzard 4-1. Calgary and Grandview advanced to the Denver competition by placing first and second in the Western Canadian Under 16 Championships, held August 10 - 12 in St. Albert.

The Dallas squad clipped Annandale Rovers of Virginia 5-4 to advance to the North American final.

In other games, Calgary beat St. Louis 5-2, and Grandview downed Fountain Valley of California 4-1.

World champion skier to open Calgary ski show

John Eaves, 1979 World Champion Freestyle Skier will be the guest of honor at the Calgary Ski Show '79 being held this fall. This three time world champion will also be a guest performer giving Calgarians an opportunity to see the various freestyle performances, which have made him the world's number one freestyler.

The Calgary Ski Show '79 will be the only major ski show held in Calgary this fall and will run from Friday, October 26 until Sunday, October 28, at the Kinsmen Centre, Stampede Park.

In keeping in step with the ever growing ski popularity, the Calgary Ski Show '79 will occupy a total of over 25,000 square feet of exhibit area and an attendance of over 15,000 visitors is expected. The Calgary Ski Show '79 is the first ever professionally produced Ski Show held in the city of Calgary and is managed by Western Show Producers Limited, who also run the highly successful Vancouver ski show. Their ski show expertise and knowledge will certainly add new dimensions to the ski scene in Calgary.

Every aspect of the ski business will be represented, much to the delight of the ski enthusiast. Over 50 manufacturers, suppliers, retailers, destination points, airlines, ski resorts, and organizations affiliated with the ski industry will be exhibiting.

Activities planned to entertain and educate the visiting skier include a new and exciting Ramp Show, featuring, in addition to John Eaves, the well known Bowie family of Calgary presenting, as well as their freestyle "Air Affair," an outstanding trampoline display. In addition, a special selection of ski movies will be shown, as well as, the ever popular Ski '80 Fashion Show produced and presented by local Calgary skiers.

The interest in cross country skiing is growing and we are growing with it! This year's show will feature a large cross-country demonstration area and experienced instructors to show the skiers proper technique. Exhibiting will be many manufacturers of cross country equipment and various resorts, which specialize in cross country trails.

Thousands of dollars worth of trips and equipment will be given away as prizes, in addition to the many activities that are planned to give Calgary skiers the good, professional ski show that they well deserve.

SHOW HOURS: Friday, October 26, 4 p.m. - 10:30 p.m., Saturday, October 27, 11 a.m. - 10:30 p.m., Sunday, October 28, 11 a.m. - 10 p.m.

For further information contact: Mr. Ray Fahey, Calgary Ski Show '79, 444 Robson Street, Vancouver, British Columbia, V6B 2B5. Telephone (604) 684-3823.

Thinking about an outing this weekend? Consider taking a boat cruise. It's a great way to have a leisurely day, taking life easy. And at noon, stop along the shore and share a delicious picnic lunch .. with a bunch of ants!

Ants can find a picnic basket almost as soon as you set it down. Their sensitive antennae home-in on sandwiches and potato chips, and they're not at all bashful about inviting themselves to the party.

Despite having poor table manners, ants are beneficial and the folks at Allied Boating Association suggest you consider their positive side before condemning their anti-social behavior.

Primarily, ants are soil tillers. They keep dirt loose and productive for the growing of many native plants and agricultural crops.

They also kill insect pests such as termites and the larvae of many destructive beetles.

Scientists have catalogued more than 15,000 species of ants around the world. They range from inch-long army ants in the tropics to small ants that herd other insects and "milk" them much the same as a dairy farmer. Some ants even take their "livestock" into their nests during winter and care for them.

There is no way to avoid ants on a picnic, but you can take time to study their way of life. Spend a few moments watching your sandwich crumbs disappear in the green jungle where ants live, and you'll have a better understanding of their value to man.
